Smoking ban forces club to pump up the perfume

BY ALICIA BABAEE

alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

A NIGHTCLUB is pumping an artificial scent into its building to cover up unpleasant odours previously masked by cigarette smoke.

Oceana in Central Milton Keynes is the first city venue to start pumping perfume.

Before the smoking ban, the smell of cigarette smoke overpowered unpleasant smells such as stale beer, sweat, toilets, damp and even flatulence.

Now, following months of research, it is getting rid of lingering odours by diffusing its own bespoke scent called Hydro-Spa over its dancefloors.

The fragrance was specially created after parent company Luminar Leisure carried out a poll of more than 3,000 adults looking into the nations favourite smells.

The favourites were grass, coffee, the sea and flowers in that order.

The Hydro-Spa scent was designed with these natural scents in mind.

Oceana's 'sexy' unisex aroma is pumped using a unique system attached to their air conditioning unit.

For a twist on different events or seasons, Luminar is now looking into aligning different scents with specific club nights such as the aroma of sun cream lotion for Ibiza nights or chocolate and roses for Valentines.

When people were asked if they could have any smell in a nightclub, more bizarre responses to the poll included scents based on petrol, marmite and tar.

There have even been suggestions that a perfume that smells of tobacco smoke could help. Mark Molton, general manager of Oceana, said: "The introduction of Hydro-Spa means we will now offer a full, multi-sensoral experience to our clubbers. We already provide a great sound and sight experience but now we've added a sexy smell too.

Pub chain Mitchells and Butler completed a small trial in which they pumped out an ozonic' fragrance in four pubs in Glasgow and Edinburgh, where the smoking ban was introduced a year ago.

It says it currently has no plans to install the aroma systems in any of its city pubs.

On a warning: Cllr Liz Campbell, MP Dr Phyllis Starkey and Insp Neil Dodds with yellow cards

Get a red card, son, and you're booked

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

YOBS are being given football-style red and yellow cards in a crackdown on anti-social behaviour in Bletchley.

West Bletchley residents are terrified of large groups of teenagers which have started congregating in Barleyhurst Park.

One resident was attacked when he tried to intervene to stop them drinking, swearing and shouting late into the night.

Neighbourhood Cluster Inspector Neil Dodds has now introduced a scheme to try to calm the situation down.

Young people found behaving anti-socially at the park are being issued with yellow cards under Thames Valley Police's Operation Rebound.

The cards tell young people that they have been warned and that if they re-offend then action will be taken against them. Anyone given a red card will have their names recorded on the police computer system.

Their parents will also be informed in writing.

The tough new rules follow a meeting between Insp Neil Dodds, Phyllis Starkey MP for Milton Keynes South West and around 40 residents.

Residents were initially advised to keep a diary of events to help police build up a picture of the anti-social behaviour occurring.

One resident said: "To be honest, it felt like we were under siege. We'd watch helplessly as they all turned up, knowing that we were in for a night of hell.

"The language was disgusting and the noise would wake our children up."

Insp Dodds said: "We had several 999 calls from residents who witnessed fighting. One resident intervened directly and was attacked himself. I knew that I needed to take firm action.

"No one objects to young people having a good time. After all, we were all young once. However, when this spills over into violence and abuse then we have to put a stop to it."

Insp Dodds dedicated a team of officers to the Barleyhurst area to confiscate alcohol from young people drinking there and to disperse rowdy youngsters.

Cllr Liz Campbell, who chairs the local Neighbourhood Action Group, said: "It is important that residents tell us about anti-social behaviour that they are suffering."

Dr Phyllis Starkey said at the meeting: "The Government has passed important new legislation that gives police and the council increased powers to tackle anti-social behaviour. I intend to make sure that this legislation is properly utilised for the benefit of local residents."

Mother attacked in front of her kids

A MOTHER was knocked to the ground and kicked and punched in front of her young children.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the assault which happened on Friday afternoon.

The woman was walking along the redway from the H9 Groveway bus stop towards Beadlemead in Netherfield with her children shortly after 1pm when they were approached by two men.

One of the offenders tried to grab the victim's handbag and when she resisted they knocked her to the ground, kicking and punching her.

The two white men, one wearing a brown T-shirt and the other wearing a white one, ran off towards Langland Road empty-handed.

DS Richard North, who is leading the investigation, said: "Clearly this is a sickening attack on a mother in front of her young children. We need to speak to any witnesses to this attack and also to anyone who may have any further information that can help us."

Anyone with information is asked to call Milton Keynes CID, via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre, on 0845 8 505 505, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Teenager pleads not guilty to death charge

A TEENAGER has pleaded not guilty to causing death by dangerous driving after 14-year-old Jordon Lightfoot was killed in a collision on the V8 Marlborough Street at Peartree Bridge on New Year's Day.

The 15-year old, who cannot be named for legal reasons, pleaded guilty to three counts of aggravated vehicle taking at Aylesbury Crown Court on Monday.

Jordon Lightfoot, from North Ridge, Eaglestone, was a front seat passenger in a stolen grey Ford Escort, when the 15-year-old driver lost control of the stolen vehicle at around 7.50am.

The car had been travelling towards the H8 Standing Way when it left the carriageway and ploughed into a tree on the central grass verge.

Firefighters worked to cut them free from the wreckage but Jordan was pronounced dead at the scene.

Two other boys were taken to Milton Keynes General Hospital. One suffered a broken arm.

No council tax for flood victims

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

MILTON Keynes Council is waiving council tax for victims of the flash floods in Stoke Goldington.

Homes in the village were swamped by flash floods twice in a month after heavy rain burst the banks of two brooks which meet just west of the High Street and flow under it in a culvert.

On Monday, July 2 residents from ten homes in the High Street, Tathall End, and Weston Underwood were evacuated to the village hall after the second spate of floods hit the area.

Cabinet member in charge of emergency planning, Cllr Douglas McCall, has given the go-ahead for a £30,000 technical investigation to find out the cause of the flooding.

The council is now offering to waive council tax for a year for those residents who had to move house, and/or whose houses require major repair work due to the floods.

A spokesman for MK Council said: "Normally there are some rules governing council tax; if the house is unoccupied and completely empty of furniture the owner will not pay council tax for the first six months

"However, if the property is classed as a main home, even if the occupants are temporarily absent, the owner is still liable for council tax.

"On this occasion the council may waver council tax for residents who have been a victim of the floods."

Sam Potts, ward councillor for the Stoke Goldington area, has been fighting for the waiver since the floods damaged around 40 houses in the area.

"This council tax waver is a step in the right direction to get residents a fair deal," he said.

"But it doesn't deal with the wider issue of what went wrong; hopefully the enquiry will discover that."

Clare Gott, whose house in the High Street was so badly damaged by the floods she had to move into rental accommodation in Great Linford, said the £30,000 enquiry launched by the council could be a waste of money.

"They did an enquiry in 1987 after the last floods and put a lot of money into it, but then didn't act on the advice," she said.

"What they need to do is gather information from the residents; there are enough people in the village that have got inside knowledge."

The spokesman added that MK Council did not exist until 1997, when the unitary council was formed, so is not responsible for enquiries before that date.

Cllr Sam Potts added: "The enquiry is taking up speed, and questionnaires and letters have been sent out to residents.

"I have also been going along to coffee mornings with maps, and senior citizens have been putting on rivers, lakes and ponds that have been filled in, which may have been a contributing factor."

"It is all about data collection at the moment."

Residents who meet criteria for the council tax waiver are advised to contact the council tax department on 01908 253794, or contact cllr Sam Potts at the civic offices by writing to him at Milton Keynes Council, Civic Offices, 1 Saxon Gate East, Central Milton Keynes, MK9 3HQ.

Chicken muck makes villagers' life a misery

A FOWL smell is causing uproar in villages around Milton Keynes.

The nauseous odour – caused by the spreading of rotting chicken faeces – was at its worst in the Brickhill area last week.

Chicken litter, which commonly consists of the dropping-soaked wood shavings or straw from egg farming operations, is being spread on local fields as fertiliser.

The smell has been described as 'cheese sick'.

After being inundated with complaints from residents, Cllr David Hopkins has vowed to do something about it.

He has written to city MP Mark Lancaster asking him to call upon the Government to review the rules regarding the spreading of chicken litter.

He said: "Any other industry producing such odours would be controlled by environmental health powers but traditionally agriculture has been exempt.

"The odours were nauseous and forced local people to keep doors and windows closed and not to go out. They couldn't enjoy their gardens on just about the first occasion this summer when they had the chance so to do."

The councillor for Danesborough ward, which covers Wavendon, Bow Brickhill and Woburn Sands is also calling for the establishment of a voluntary 'good neighbour' local code of operation so that residents are given prior notice of spreading operations.

He wants contractors to liaise with the environmental team at MK Council and to inform the public when, where and for how long operations will take place by putting it on their website.

A spokesman for the council said: "This suggestion has already been made by one of our officers.

"Once we know we will endeavour to get it on our website as quickly as possible, and we will also inform the people on our helpline so they know what to tell the public when they call."

Current regulations say that if spreaders follow the Agricultural Code of Good Practice there is no action that can be taken.

Matthew Fuller from Fullers' Group, which spreads the manure, said: "We have been speaking to environmental health.

"We have agreed that whenever we are putting it down we will contact them. It is only a couple of days a year, it was just bad luck that it was nice weather. We did the work for a local farmer."

Letters to The Editor, MKNews, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Queens Court still an option for market

SIR – I am responding to several letters about the demise of the farmers' market in the Theatre District and the suggestions that it should have taken place within the-centre:mk and particularly Queens Court.

Over recent years we have run continental markets in Queens Court, and will continue to do so while they are viable for the operators.

We have also had numerous discussions with various farmers' market organisations as we feel these would be a valuable addition to our programme of events and activities.

We have, to date, found many of the operators unwilling to bring a market into the city centre based upon logistical issues and their experiences of poor trading in the past.

We remain open to discussions and solutions as we believe a well-advertised and regular farmers' market would be an appealing retail opportunity for the city centre.

Jackie Tracey
Commercial and events manager, thecentre:mk

High-rise homes will destroy our green and pleasant city

SIR – The story concerning Milton Keynes' West End Phase One in last week's MK NEWS provides further evidence of English Partnerships' seeming wish to destroy everything about Milton Keynes that makes it an enjoyable place in which to live.

The site involved is opposite the new Sainsbury's building.

Given the area of land involved, the 650 dwellings will result in a very high-density development.

Close examination of the story's fuzzy artist's impressions confirms what was obvious from the exhibition about Milton Keynes' West End Phase One, recently provided by Places for People in Midsummer Place.

That is, that English Partnerships' 'fresh approach to 21st century urban living' means abandoning the low rise buildings surrounded by trees and other green landscaping that currently make Central Milton Keynes so attractive.

David Shaw of Places for People refers to 'redevelopment' and 'regeneration'. These words are usually applied to run down inner city areas.

The only way in which they can apply to Milton Keynes is as an excuse for treating our beautiful green city as a brownfield site, allowing English Partnerships, as the agent of central government, to minimise the cost of pushing forward its plans for development in the South East.

If we want to save our beautiful city, we need to bombard English Partnerships, its chosen development companies and our borough councillors with letters of complaint about their appalling plans for destroying it.

B J Thompson
Great Linford

■ SIR – I am disappointed that the farmers' market in the Theatre District failed to attract enough support but am not surprised due to the location it was given.

It was far too remote from the shops and not visible to shoppers.

Unless a person was specifically going to the market they would not even pass it when doing their shopping in CMK unless they were going into the Theatre District by the side entrance.

A more visible location, like in the main market area, or in or just outside Midsummer Place by the steps and bus stops, or Middleton Hall by John Lewis, would have been more noticeable and attracted passers-by.

There have been French markets between the main centre and Midsummer Place, why could our UK farmers have been given that location instead of having to be so far from all the shops and shoppers.

I also think Saturdays would have been better as some people still keep Sundays for family time and not food shopping.

J Sandall
by e-mail

Pole postiton

SIR – If there were four poles outside the civic offices I would gladly see each of the European Union, Union, English and MK flags flying there.

Similar arrangements are common on civic buildings elsewhere in the EU.

However, there are not and so we simply need to decide which flag takes priority. This surely has to be the Union Flag.

I accept that there was a period, late last century, when sadly our national flags (both Union and St George Cross) seemed regularly associated with football hooligans and politics of the far right.

But those times have gone and in today's Britain once again a sense of positive Britishness exists, just look at the flag flying throughout the community at the time of any sporting world cup as examples.

Our civic leaders should be proud to fly our national flag (or flags) and shame on them if they will not.

Paul Day
Newport Pagnell

■ SIR – Regarding your question on whether the council should fly the Union Flag.

Of couse they should fly the flag, either the Union Flag, the St George Cross or preferably both!

There are eight flag poles on Station Square and they are usually flying MK Council or other country's flags, but I have never seen the Union Flag flown.

I really don't understand why the council is reluctant to do this, choosing instead to ban or threaten prosecution to anyone flying the flag without a permit.

Does this council not know which country it serves?

Kelvin Lush
by e-mail

■ SIR – I suspect their real problem with flying the Union Flag is that the council does not know which way up it should be flown.

N J Dennis
by e-mail

■ SIR – The issue of whether to fly the Union Flag has predictably stirred up a hornet's nest of strong views.

I agree with Mr Taylor's well reasoned piece and see no reason why the council can't have two flagpoles and show both local and national pride. No reasonable person objects to anyone flying their own flag in their own country.

I can't help wondering who those who worry about flying the Union Flag are trying to appease.

Amir Khan enters the ring with his entourage carrying the flag. His dad even has a Union Jack waistcoat!

Our multicultural athletics team parades the flag around the track whenever they win a medal.

Without wishing to confuse England with Great Britain, you will see people of all races and backgrounds wearing the England shirt, especially during a World Cup.

It's true that right wing extremist groups have tried to appropriate the Union Flag and the cross of St George for their own ends, but the message to them should be : 'It's not your flag, it belongs to all of us'.

The council is only succeeding in stirring up the kind of aggressive, exclusive nationalism that these right wing groups feed upon.

Francis Pitfield
Calverton Road, Stony Stratford

Left high and dry

SIR – When the floods came to Stony Stratford the other week there was much concern – just as there had been in 1998.

Since then the town has seen more homes built on flood plain although the overall impact has been less than perhaps feared.

However, of significance is the apparent absence of the three local MK councillors at the scene of the flooding in the High Street.

When the floods came on the Saturday I ensured that I made two visits to talk to residents at 1pm and at 5.30pm. I also spoke to the police and, with their support and that of the residents, the road was closed and this prevented some stupid drivers from thinking it was fun to race through the water and force it over the kerbs.

I am constantly being asked to stand again for MK Council next May and may be tempted as there are many issues in Stony ward that need attention and that have been neglected.

These include traffic issues in and around the schools in Two Mile Ash, landscaping in Galley Hill and the Cavendish site in Fullers Slade.

Councillors need to appreciate that there is more to the role than a title, good allowances and free parking in CMK.

Next May, if I seek election, it will be on the back of local support and probably as an independent.

The Tories have already re-selected their councillor and the other main parties are always fair and honest in their support of some of the things I do and quite rightly oppose some of them too.

Paul Bartlett
Stony Stratford

Cum On Feel The Noize

SIR – Thank goodness summer is finally here. Now the rain has subsided for the next few days my family and I can sit out and enjoy the sunshine...

Well we could if we didn't have to put up with a significant minority of neighbours and passers by who are completely ignorant of the impact their noise and behaviour can make.

How about this for an idea – if you have your windows open it could be that the noise from inside your house can be heard outside from a long way away.

In our part of Wolverton we have a lovely teenage band which seems to wait for the peace and quiet to descend before striking up a sort of tune.

We also have a rapper who likes to practice in his bedroom – pity he doesn't realise that this means another 100 or so people have to listen to him whenever they're in their gardens.

A bit of consideration by keeping windows closed etc would be appreciated.

This is nothing, though, compared to the macho morons who drive their clapped out cars to Wolverton pool whenever it is sunny.

No, I don't want to hear your 1.3 litre Clio being revved to within an inch of its life, and neither do I care if you have the latest R&B cd playing with all your windows open.

Do you think that people are impressed by this sort of behaviour and think 'wow how cool are they?'.

Of course they don't – everyone thinks you're a baseball hat-wearing loser with too much testosterone.

Looking at the wrecks that get parked around this area I would suggest the police could use it as a nice collection point for unroadworthy vehicles. Let's make them walk home in their fake Burberry swimming trunks.

It is really disappointing how inconsiderate and selfish people can be when they are intent on enjoying themselves, especially once they have had a drink. Shouting and singing in the middle of the night should be rewarded with a night in the cells.

Shop damaged in blaze

A FIRE caused serious damage to a kebab shop in New Bradwell.

The incident on Monday occurred at 7pm at Istanbul Kebabs, in the High Street.

Two appliances and crews from Great Holm, and one from Newport Pagnell attended along with station manager Dave Norris.

The building, which consists of a two storey terraced shop and flats above, was severely damaged by fire on the ground floor, and severely damaged by smoke on the first floor.

Firefighters used six sets of breathing apparatus, two hose reels, one jet and two positive pressure ventilation fans.

Early indications are that the fire was caused by a build up of deposits, including fat, in an extractor duct.

Married couple mugged

A MARRIED couple were mugged in Bletchley on Sunday night.

The pair were walking along Western Way around 11.30pm when a man approached them from behind while another man stood across the road.

The husband was pushed to the ground while his wife was attacked before the offender stole her handbag.

The men ran off with the bag containing credit cards and about £70.

The offender is black, aged in his late twenties or early thirties, 5ft 10ins to 6ft, large build with a shaved head, clean shaven with a big round face and local accent.

He wore a beige waist-length jacket, beige bottoms and dark shirt.

There is no description of the second man.

Police in hunt for mobile phone killer

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

POLICE are still hunting a murder suspect following the death of 30-year-old David Williams at his flat in Oldbrook.

Floral tributes fill the area outside the home in Oldbrook Boulevard where Mr Williams was attacked on Friday.

It is believed the argument was over a mobile phone that the suspect accused Mr Williams of stealing from him the day before.

Police used a helicopter to search for the offender on Friday without success and are still investigating.

DI Ray Summers, leading the murder investigation, said: "We are following a positive line of enquiry and have interviewed a number of people about what happened at the address on Friday afternoon.

"I am very keen to hear from anyone who saw a man running through the estate of Oldbrook at around 1.30pm on Friday.

"He was black and wearing a green jacket and blue jeans.

"We are in the early stages of this enquiry but I would like to reassure the public that I believe this is an isolated incident."

The offender had a dog with him which has since been found at an address in Milton Keynes.

Anyone who saw the man running through Oldbrook should call detectives at Milton Keynes CID via 0845 8 505 505, quoting URN 604 of August 6 2007.

Those with information who do not wish to speak to police or leave their name should call Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Council turns down offer of new pole to fly Union Flag

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

'We fly the council flag because we are Milton Keynes Council and it's our council building': Council leader Isobel McCall

A SOCIETY that fights for all things British has offered to pay for a flag pole to fly the Union Flag from the council offices.

The offer comes after MK NEWS reported two weeks ago that a row had broken out when Cllr Don Hoyle asked Milton Keynes Council leader Isobel McCall to authorise the flying of the flag, at a full council meeting on July 10.

Neil Herron, campaign director at the Metric Martyrs Defence Fund has now offered to pay for the flagpole to be fixed.

The flag is also known as the Union Jack when flown on a ship. This newspaper received a flood of mail calling for the council to put up the flag.

Cllr McCall said: "Certainly on days like royal birthdays, we do fly the Union Flag. But most of the time we fly the council flag because we are Milton Keynes Council and it's our council building."

She added: "We used to have two poles but somehow one developed a nasty bend in it and it was deemed unsafe."

Mr Herron said: "I am sure that they will then have no objection for the Union flag to be flown every day of the year."

The'Metric Martyrs organisation was set up in 2000 after a Sunderland greengrocer had his scales seized for selling bananas by the pound, now a criminal offence as a result of EU Legislation.

"With the new Prime Minister there has been a call to be more patriotic and to fly the flag from public buildings," he said.

"Milton Keynes Council offers a feeble excuse by saying that one flagpole is bent.

"Therefore, if they have no objection, we do not mind being patriotic for them and if cost is the only barrier to their patriotism then we will pay for the pole and the flag."

A spokesman for MK Council said: "We appreciate the offer, but we are already looking into this ourselves.

"We hope to be able to say more over the next few weeks."

Deputy leader, Euan Henderson, says the council will try to respond to the public's wishes.

"If there is now a strong swell of public opinion that we should change that practice, well, we are a listening council, and we are listening!" he said.

'Water company' con men rob pensioner

TWO men claiming they were from a water company stole cash from the home of a pensioner.

Police have urged the public to be vigilant following the distraction burglary on Tuesday at a house in Bowles Place, Woughton on the Green.

At around 5.45pm two men arrived at the pensioner's home and said they needed to check the water pressure.

The elderly woman allowed them to enter the house through the rear and showed one of them to the bathroom, where he turned on the taps and checked the sink.

But the woman became suspicious and told the man she was going to phone her neighbour.

She returned to the kitchen, where the second man was waiting, and as she phoned her neighbour both men ran out of the house though the back door. They had stolen an undisclosed amount of cash from the kitchen drawer.

Police described the first man as white, in his late twenties, 5ft 6ins, slim, with short dark brown hair. He was clean shaven and is described as having a 'funny eye'.

The second is white, 5ft 8ins, medium build with a round face.

Council puts officer on beach patrol

MILTON Keynes Council has allocated an architectural officer to help bring a beach to the city.

MK NEWS has been following the efforts of the driving force behind the city's beach plan, Anita Rose, for the last three years.

Last month the 67-year-old from Church Lees, Great Linford said she was losing hope as other areas including Birmingham, Swindon and Kings Lynn, have built beaches before Milton Keynes.

She claimed £10,000 worth of tax payers money could have been wasted on a feasibility study, which was carried out by English Partnerships at the request of Milton Keynes Council in July last year.

A spokesman for MK Council said: "We have assigned an officer from the architects department specifically to look at this.

"The officer is looking at other places in the country that have beaches and how they do it in other parts of the world as we want to do this right. The will is there and we are looking seriously at it."

Mrs Rose said: "The letter they have supplied to allow me to do fund raising is not worth the paper it is written on," she said.

"When I go to people who say they will support us, they say they want something more concrete."

She added: "I want that beach here and up and running for the people of Milton Keynes."

In September,Campbell Park was agreed as an ideal site for the beach.

Floating lanterns in memory of bomb victims

LANTERNS were floated on Willen Lake on Monday to commemorate the victims of the first atomic bomb attack.

A United States aircraft dropped the first atomic bomb on the Japanese city of Hiroshima on August 6 1945, killing an estimated 200,000 people.

Milton Keynes' annual ceremony which seeks to reflect on the horrors of war in an atomic age was held on the anniversary of the bombing.

Participants prayed for peace and harmony between all people and nations.

There was also a talk by the interfaith peace walkers, who that day finished their 1,300km, 86 day journey from Dublin to London.

The campaigners, who visited Milton Keynes on July 21, are calling for global action to break the "cycle of mass destruction" created by the nuclear industry

The walk was organised by Footprints for Peace, an organisation based in America with co-ordinators throughout the world.

Home beats living on a city's bench

BY ALICIA BABAEE
alicia.babaee@mk-news.co.uk

HOMELESS Daniel Issayu is safe and sound in Switzerland, with a roof over his head from the first time in two years.

Volunteer Ann Cooper, from the Open Door drop-in centre for the homeless in Conniburrow, has spoken out about how happy he was returning home and how he wants to keep in touch.

He had lived on a bench outside Sainsbury's in central Milton Keynes for nearly two years. Nobody would give him shelter because it was believed he was an illegal immigrant.

Ann Cooper accompanied Daniel – who can only speak French - on a flight to Geneva last Tuesday morning, and handed him over to social services.

She said: "He was really happy because he could speak to everyone there.

"He'd begun to think of us as family and he wanted to know if he could write to us so I left him my address.

"He was immediately entitled to invalid care allowance because he is not mentally of his age.

"They got him a room for the night and I gave him some lunch before I left, we went to a little cafe.

"They think they know where his sister is, and I am going to write to her and see if she wants to meet her brother."

Back home: Daniel Issayu

Four weeks ago Daniel was rushed into hospital with a bacterial skin infection.

Volunteers found him in pain near the Theatre District while they were out hunting for him because he hadn't turned up at the homeless drop-in centre that he attends weekly for a hot meal.

Dean Burchall, the volunteer who found him, said: "When we found him he hadn't been able to move for days. His eyes were all yellow, his feet were rotten. He was lying in a pit, he hadn't been able to move for days."

When Daniel was released from hospital with nowhere to go, volunteers were livid.

He was unable to read the labels on the bag of medicine he had been given.

The volunteers struggled to find shelter for Daniel, but after liaising with the Swiss Embassy, it was decided he should go back there. They confirmed that he was a Swiss national.

Before the decision was made to take him back to Switzerland, Daniel was offered a daily hot dinner by generous Netherfield resident Diane Tillyer.

Volunteers made sure Daniel was well presented for his trip home by giving hima haircut, a shave and clean new clothes, kindly donated by MK NEWS readers.

Ann Cooper added: "Maybe in a few months I might just go out there and see how Daniel is doing.

"This man had to live on a bench for two years, it's just not on. I don't want this to happen to anyone else, the system has got to be sorted out."

She is arranging a meeting with the hospital and social services to discuss the way he was treated.

She added: "I'm sure there's another Daniel out there, with a different problem."

Officers of the Milton Keynes Bike Patrol demonstrate their new steeds donated by the Community Safety Partnership

Bobbies on bicycles

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

MOUNTAIN bikes are the latest ploy to help police increase their presence across the city.

Officers from Milton Keynes Bike Patrol were presented with four new mountain bikes by representatives from Xscape, Midsummer Place and the Community Safety Partnership on Thursday.

PC Suzanne Kerbyson said: "We will be able to get around a lot quicker and easier and we will be able to show a higher profile in the communities, which is key in gaining trust and confidence with the public.

"A higher presence will also help reduce the fear of crime and hopefully deter potential offenders."

The bikes were brought locally from Chaineys Cycles in Shenley Church End.

Community officers will also hold a crime prevention day at Midsummer Place next week to encourage cyclists to protect their bikes from thieves.

Cyclists will be offered free bike registration and marking, allocating each bike a unique reference number.

Visitors will also receive a registration log book to be used as proof of ownership, a tamper-evident label to alert potential thieves that the bike is registered and secure access to the bikeregister.com database.

By registering a bike it can be returned to the owner if it is stolen and recovered.

Home office figures show less than six per cent of stolen bikes are recovered by their owners but 131,240 bikes were reported stolen in the UK last year.

The crime prevention day will take place outside Midsummer Place, near the entrance to the Gap store, on Thursday 16 and Friday 17 August from 11am to 3pm.

Kids can get sporty

THERE is no excuse for youngsters not to get sporty this summer.

Children can have a go at lots of different activities during the summer holidays as part of multi-sports sessions at a local leisure centre.

Milton Keynes Council sports development team is running sessions for children aged between eight and 12 years.

The sessions are from 10am until midday at Oakgrove Leisure Centre, Middleton this month on the 9th and 10th, 14th 15th and 16th.

Each two hour session costs £6 and concessions are available for Passport to Leisure holders – a scheme offering people on lower incomes to benefit from discounted sports access.

Council out to rate your restaurant

FIND out whether your favourite restaurant is a hero or a zero.

Milton Keynes Council is launching 'Scores on the Doors' – where restaurants, cafes and takeaways will be graded from 0 to 5 stars, following an inspection from the council's Environmental Health team.

Businesses will be awarded a star rating based on the food hygiene standards and the results will be available for potential customers to view on the internet.

They will also be supplied with a sticker and certificate for them to display, hence 'Scores on the Doors'. The star rating will vary from 5 stars for businesses who have achieved an excellent standard, to no stars where improvements are clearly required.

This is a national scheme and the information on catering premises in the Milton Keynes district will be available on the Internet from September 17.

Inspections of catering premises carried out by the council since January 1, 2006, will be put onto the website www.scoresonthedoors.org.uk.

An Environmental Health spokesman said: "Customers will be able to see just how well their favourite eatery performs in terms of hygiene practices. It will encourage food premises operators to ensure they keep up to scratch in relation to hygiene."

Tower better late than never

THIS is the latest piece of artwork to get your head turning.

The MK Forty Tower is a temporary artwork commissioned by the MK Gallery from de Rijke Marsh Morgan Architects (dRMM) to celebrate Milton Keynes's 40th anniversary.

The 19 metre high tower is made with 162mm cross-laminated timber and is freestanding so can be easily re-erected in any location in the city.

Visitors can climb its 101 wooden steps to reach a platform showing panoramic views of the city and the landscape beyond.

Admission will be free and the tower will be open during normal gallery opening hours.

After climbing the tower visitors will be able to refresh themselves in possibly one of the strangest coffee bars in the city, housed in a 20x8ft lime green metal shipping container which has been temporarily installed by the gallery in Margaret Powell Square, beside the tower.

The MK40 Coffee Bar is being run by Sublime Coffee, serving Fair Trade coffee.

The building was not ready for Friday's official opening but is expected to open today.

Polish doctor fled war to work in UK

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A POLISH doctor who has worked in poor and war-stricken areas has died.

Dr Stephaniea Cywinska, who was born in Warsaw in 1919, died at her home in Oaktree Court, Portland Drive, Willen on Thursday, July 26.

She lived in Yardley Gobien from 1980 until moving to Willen four years ago.

The 87-year-old, who had complained of feeling ill the night before, passed away just after 6am in the presence of her son, Peter.

A post-mortem into her death has proved inconclusive, though pathologists are awaiting further test results.

Mrs Cywinska had lived on her own in sheltered accommodation since her husband, Cezary, died in 1980.

She came to Britain in 1940, after working as a volunteer for the medical service in Poland at the start of the Second World War.

Her future husband came over shortly afterwards when he was released from a labour camp in Siberia.

He served in the Royal Air Force before becoming a doctor.

The couple met in Britain and married in 1946.

"They couldn't believe their wonderful good fortune to come over," said son Peter.

"They liked living here to the point that I never spoke Polish when I was young."

Mrs Cywinska qualified as a doctor at Edinburgh University in 1949.

During her career she worked in the cancer ward at Ryhope Hospital, Sunderland and in the casualty department at a hospital in Coventry.

She also regularly travelled abroad with her husband to pooor and war-torn areas such as Nigeria, other parts of Africa and Malaysia.

A full inquest into her death will be held on November 26.

Dr Stephaniea Cywinska was born in Warsaw in 1919

Police warning after sat nav thefts

POLICE are urging drivers to remove satellite navigation systems from their vehicles, after a spate of thefts.

John Horsley, a Milton Keynes crime reduction supervisor, said: "I want people to realise that leaving a sat nav in a car is the equivalent of leaving cash laid out on the dashboard.

"If people can start to think like this, then they are more likely to remember to remove devices from their cars."

The police advise owners to remove of all parts of the system including any support cradles and suction pads fitted to the windscreen, and clear off any marks left by the holder and pads.

Don't leave your satellite navigation kit in your glove compartment – this is the first place a thief will look.

Ballroom glitz

TWO years ago the construction of stadium:mk began and this Saturday sees an historic day as MK Dons host their first competitive league game in their new stadium, against Bury.

It is well known that the 22,000 comfy seats in the lower bowl are the same as those at Arsenal's Emirates stadium, but here are ten facts you maybe didn't know about stadium:mk.

■ Chairman Pete Winkelman was so impressed with Benfica's Stadium of Light, he based the design of the open concourse on it.

■ The fonts and numbering in the stadium were inspired the creator of Thunderbirds and Captain Scarlett, Gerry Anderson.

■ There are black towers either side of the ballroom, which were designed to look like Marshall Amps – the Dons' sponsors and one of Milton Keynes' most famous businesses. It also pays tribute to Pete's musical past.

■ The ballroom has a capacity of 1,000, it is the largest single conference facility in the south east of England, outside of London.

■ The stadium is the first in the UK to have 360 degree non restricted disabled viewing.

■ There is a custody suite situated in the south stand, with three holding cells, an interview room and a reception room.

■ The pitch is the same size as Wembley, 105 metres long and 68 metres in width. It is five metres longer and four metres wider than the National Hockey Stadium.

■ For one man it is just short of a 17 mile walk to cut the pitch, if you include both the length and the width.

■ The synthetic fibre in the pitch, end to end, would stretch round the world one-and-a-half times.

■ The glazed black granite blocks that make up the exterior of the stadium were made to order and flown in especially from Japan.

Dons hand over Wimbledon cups and ostrich egg

AN ostrich egg, a mascot outfit, some duvets and the replica of the FA Cup have all been handed over to the Merton Civic Centre by MK Dons.

A decision was made for all trophies and artefacts of Wimbledon FC, to be given to Merton Council following lengthy negotiations between Milton Keynes Dons FC, Milton Keynes Dons Supporters Association (MKDSA), Wimbledon Independent Supporters Association (WISA) and the Football Supporters Federation (FSF).

As part of the agreement, the FSF and WISA will call off any supporter boycotts of MK Dons matches and the FSF have presented the MKDSA with a certificate of membership.

The FSF and MK Dons FC have also agreed that the achievements of the club prior to July 2004, shall be referred to as the achievements as Wimbledon FC.

That of course includes the famous 'Crazy Gang' win over Liverpool in 1988 at Wembley.

Club trophies and artefacts were handed over to Merton Civic Centre on Thursday where representatives of London Borough of Merton and MK Dons chairman Pete Winkelman formally signed the deed of transfer allowing the items to go onto public display within the Borough

Mr Winkelman said: "Most of the great honours, like the 1988 FA Cup, were won while the club was in Merton and I think that it's right that the silverware goes there.

The FA Cup leaves Dons new stadium after the decision that all trophies and artefacts of Wimbledon FC are to be given to Merton Council

"It's almost like the regimental medals going back to the regimental headquarters.

"It's something for both ourselves and AFC Wimbledon to be able to look at as part of our history from where we've both come from.

"But I think we've also got to concentrate on our own history, our new history in Milton Keynes."

MKDSA Chairman John Brockwell said: "The MKDSA are pleased that all parties have reached an agreement that allows the patrimony to be viewed by supporters in a neutral and accessible location for all.

"We also welcome the opportunity to formally join the Football Supporters Federation and assist in its fine work to ensure that the "beautiful game" develops in this country with the valuable input of supporter representation."

Changes to Enduring Power of Attorney Rules

From October 2007, the ability to create an Enduring Power of Attorney will be banished forever.

Existing arrangements will be allowed to continue, but from October 2007 anyone wanting to put control of their money and property into the hands of someone else will have to follow a new procedure.
Neves are advising clients to plump for an Enduring Power of Attorney before it is too late because in October 2007 it will become much more complex. An EPA set up before the changes take place will remain valid.
The point of the Enduring Power of Attorney is to choose someone while you are well to look after your affairs when you aren't.
As things stand you can draw up a basic Power of Attorney to have someone act for you and help with straightforward tasks such as fetching money from the bank. But it runs out once you become unable to manage your affairs.
That's where the Enduring Power of Attorney or EPA comes in. You hand power over your property and money to someone else you trust. The power can start right now while you are well if you want it to, but the important feature of the Enduring Power of Attorney is that it continues when you're unable to manage.

The EPA is to be replaced by a new Lasting Power of Attorney which will come in 2 forms. The first is completely new. It covers decisions over health and welfare. The second deals with property and money as before.
However, the Lasting Power of Attorney will only be valid once it is registered with what's called the Office of the Public Guardian and a new fee paid to the Public Guardianship Office. The new fee is likely to be higher.
Granting a power of attorney is such a significant step that many people prefer to seek the help of a solicitor.

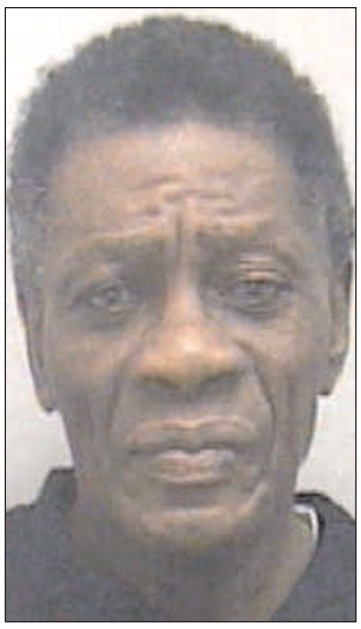
Pensioner jailed for drug dealing



Jailed for drugs: Llewellyn Lovelace of Great Holm

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A CITY pensioner has been sent to prison after pleading guilty to drug dealing.

Sixty nine-year-old Llewellyn Lovelace, from Westwood Close in Great Holm, was due to stand trial at Aylesbury Crown Court on August 20, but changed his pleas at a hearing on Friday (July 27).

He pleaded guilty to two counts of supplying cannabis and was sentenced to one year the first count and two years on the second.

He was also charged with possession of cannabis and sentenced to nine months, and with permitting his home to be used for smoking cannabis, for which he was sentenced to 18 months.

All sentences will run concurrentlyon.

Two other drugs charges against the pensioner were dropped.

Detective Inspector Yvette Hitch said: "The operation that led to Lovelace's arrest was conducted earlier this year and involved our Proactive Team, Priority Crime Team and the local officers on the Great Holm estate.

"Much of the evidence gathered was from the community which shows that by working together with the public we can tackle those who are focussed on getting drugs onto our streets.

"Operation Falcon was recently launched to tackle Class A drug dealing, but we will also tackle people who deal in other classes of drugs and become a menace to our communities."

Anyone with information about those dealing and using drugs can call the Priority Crime Team, via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre, on 0845 8 505 505.

If callers don't want to talk to police and don't want to give their name, they can call the Crimestoppers charity, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Man left in coma after attack outside pub

A MAN is in a coma after suffering life-threatening head injuries outside a pub in Whaddon.

A 53-year-old man was asked to leave the Lowndes Arms public house in Whaddon, on Saturday at around 9pm.

He and his female partner left but was found with the injuries.

He was taken to Stoke Mandeville hospital but has since been transferred to Oxford to the Adult intensive care unit at John Radcliffe hospital.

His condition has not improved since he was admitted, and he is currently in a coma.

Two men have been arrested on suspicion of causing grievous bodily harm and released on bail pending further enquiries.

Police are appealing for witnesses.

Investigating officer DS Paul Keeping said: "We are concentrating on discovering how the victim sustained his injuries.

"I need to hear from any witnesses who spent Saturday evening in the Lowndes Arms or anyone who may have witnessed the man leaving the pub that night.

"They may prove vital to police investigations."

Anyone who witnessed the incident is asked to contact DS Keeping at Amersham CID via the 24-hour Police Enquiry Centre on 0845 8 505 505, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

Abattoir at standstill

BUSINESS is at a stand-still in a local abattoir as bans are still in place after the foot and mouth outbreak in Surrey.

Roger Carr, owner of Simply Halal which slaughters cattle and lamb from local farms at its site in Hanslope, said his business is under threat due to the national ban on all movements of livestock.

"If it goes on much longer we will have to shut the doors," he said.

"My workers have got no jobs half the day, and we can't afford to pay them to do nothing."

He said the outbreak in 2001 cost his business £200,000, and is worried the disease will spread again.

Milton Keynes Council officers are out informing farmers that they cannot move their animals.

A spokesman for the council said local agencies will remain vigilant for unauthorised transportation while the ban is in place.

Two cases of the disease have been confirmed at farms near Guildford in Surrey. A number of other suspected occurrences are being investigated, but so far all tests have been negative.

A spokesman for MK Council said: "We are out talking to farmers and other livestock owners to make sure they understand that they cannot move livestock.

"We would also ask if anyone is made aware of any movement, that they ring Trading Standards Animal Health on 01908 252803 or DEFRA on 08459 335577."

COMPETITION

Win a VIP night at the theatre – and a girly goodie bag from Boots – oh, and arrive in style in a stretch limo with bubbly! – and take five friends along

BECOME a pampered star and enjoy a night at the theatre.

To coincide with the arrival of Girls Behind at MK Theatre later this month, MK NEWS has teamed up with the theatre, Boots and Starlite Limos to offer you this fantastic competition prize.

This prize would be perfect for mums who maybe don't get the chance to get out that often.

The winner will be able to take five friends to see a performance of Girls Behind on Wednesday, August 29 at 7.30pm.

As well as this they will win a hamper packed with girly goodies worth £50 from Boots at thecentre:mk along with a free in-store makeover.

But that's not all you will be taken to the show in a luxury stretch limousine with complimentary bubbly coutesy of Starlite Limos which will pick the group up from a location of their choice, drive them to the theatre and then back again after the show.

The production itself stars Maureen Nolan (Blood Brothers, Mum's The Word), Sue Devaney (Dinnerladies, Casualty) and Donna Hazelton (Girls Night, Musicality).

Hot on the heels of the hugely successful UK tour and American premiere of Girls Night, writer Louise Roche promises another night of laughter and tears, and some knock-out anthems sure to have you up on your feet.

Stacked full of wit, charm, and their trademark outrageous commentary on all-things female, Girls Behind's poignant storyline also packs a real punch!

And with three of the country's favourite singers and comic actresses breathing life into brilliant one-liners and timeless classic songs like Think, Man! I Feel Like A Woman and Misty Blue, an extra special night of entertainment is guaranteed.

Singing trio The Diamonds have been friends since school.

Lois is a bit stuck up (to say the least!), Sadie's tough but has a soft centre, and Serena's – well – just a 'bit' nervous.

Ten years on and they still meet every Friday night to sing at The Star Club.

Twenty years on and they still go through everything together – the highs and lows of their relationships, their family triumphs and of course tragedies.

But just what happens to friendship when one is pushed into the limelight and the others forced to sing backing vocals?

Girls Behind comes to Milton Keynes Theatre from Tuesday, August 28 until September 1.

HOW TO ENTER

All you have to do to be in with a chance of winning is answer this simple question:

Which former Nolan sister stars in Girls Behind?

Answers on a postcard to Girls Behind competition, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes, MK15 0DU or by email to competitions@mk-news.co.uk. Please include your name, address and telephone number.

First drawn out of the hat wins. Editors decision is final. Closing date August 17.

Animal cruelty act beginning to bite

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

THE RSPCA says regional statistics for 2006 show a promising reduction in cases of cruelty and neglect.

In Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire annual figures published last week show that 33 cases were reported compared to 41 the year before. This is despite a 10 per cent increase in cases nationally. Only 24 convictions were secured, 81 per cent fewer than 2005.

The society says it is seeing encouraging signs that the new Animal Welfare Act is having a significant impact.

It hopes that next year's cruelty statistics will continue to show a reduction in the number of animals being left to suffer, since the new Act became law in April 2007.

Dog's life? This picture of a mistreated dog was successfully used in a case brought by the RSPCA

RSPCA East Region superintendent, Tim Wass, said: "Today's figures refer to last year and, although the new Animal Welfare Act is only a few months old, so far it seems to be working extremely well.

"Many front line RSPCA inspectors are reporting that people are responding well to the new law and, increasingly, we are able to help prevent animal suffering before it begins."

He added: "Our main purpose in taking people to court is to prevent cruelty in future. Crucially, courts have the power to ban those convicted from keeping animals.

"The new Animal Welfare Act obliges courts to explain their reasons if they don't impose a ban.

"We hope this will focus attention on preventative action, which could save lives."

Car mechanic killed on way back from funeral

THE family of a man who died in a head-on collision has paid tribute to a 'wonderful father'.

David Morgan, 49, from Weavers Hill, in Fuller Slade, was on his way back from a funeral when he died after his 4x4 was involved in a head-on collision on the H2 grid road, Millers Way, at the junction with Greenleys Lane on Friday July 27.

Born in Newport, Wales, he had four children and three step-children.

His wife, Sandra said he was a 'fantastic' husband and a 'wonderful father'.

"My children aren't his but he was like a father to them," she said.

"I am going to miss him so much."

His friend David Taylor, who knew Mr Morgan through a motorcycle club said: "He was genuine, honest and one of the most helpful people you could wish to meet.

"He would always be thinking of others; he was there for people."

Mr Morgan, a car mechanic who had recently been made redundant, was travelling down Millers Way at 5.15pm on his blue Suzuki SJ 4x4 behind a green Vauxhall Astra, which slowed down and stopped to turn right into Greenleys.

Mr Morgan swerved to avoid the Astra, colliding head-on with a red Renault Megane travelling in the opposite direction.

He was taken by air ambulance John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford where he was pronounced dead just after 10.30pm.

An inquest has been opened and adjourned until November.

Measure for measure

TRADING Standards Officers at Milton Keynes Council have scooped an international award, for making sure people don't end up buying fake or watered down spirits.

They carried out hundreds of tests at bars, clubs, restaurants and other licensed premises across the city and found NO evidence of any tampering with spirits, either by watering down, or selling cheap brands as more expensive ones.

The team's hard work was rewarded when staff received a Silver award from the International Federation of Spirits Producers at the Consumer Affairs & Trading Standards Conference & Exhibition 2007 in Manchester.

As well as a certificate the TS team also received £200 worth of vouchers to pay for additional training in their field.

Optical conclusion: A Trading Standards officer checks spirit measures with a dipstick

Trading Standards Officer Pam Gosal said: "We are extremely pleased to win this International Award, as a Trading Standards Division we are committed to ensure that the consumer is protected from unscrupulous commercial practices and ensure that there is a level playing field within the on licence trade"

"In the past we have publicised cases where tests have shown that spirits have been tampered with but we are happy to say that we encountered no such problems in this recent batch of tests.

Officers carry out simple dipstick tests that recognise natural ingredients present in major spirit brands.

Hannah Burgess after she won gold in her group, other MK SNUGS team members join the applause

Going for gold – and getting it!

A SPECIAL needs gymnastics team won four gold medals at a competition in London.

The Milton Keynes SNUGS, the Special Needs Unit Gymnastics team run by a city charity at Woughton Campus, Leadenhall, took five competitors to the national Special Olympics gymnastics competition on Sunday July 22.

The SNUGS is a group of young people with physical, sensory and learning disabilities such as cerebral palsy and Down's Syndrome who have an aptitude and enthusiasm for gymnastics.

Andy Fisher, chairman and trampoline coach, said: "We walked away with the maximum four gold medals and one silver; we couldn't have done any better.

"We were up against gymnasts who have been picked for the world games in China but still held our own.

He added: "I am in awe of these gifted young gymnasts every time I see them compete as I know I am watching something special. They demonstrate that disability is no barrier to sporting achievement."

No appeal on taxi wheelchair decision

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

Cllr Chris Williams, right, claims there was nothing to gain by taking wheelchair case to a higher court

MILTON Keynes Council has decided not to appeal against the magistrate court's decision in a battle over disabled access in cabs.

Following an appeal by the Milton Keynes Hackney Carriage Association last month, Deputy District Judge Bal Daliwal ammended council regulations which required every taxi to be wheelchair accessible.

The ruling has left the council paying more than £20,000 in court costs.

Cabinet member for transport, Cllr Chris Williams, said the council has decided not to appeal against the decision.

"There are two reasons for this. One is that having listened to legal advice we felt there was nothing to gain by taking it to the higher courts," he said.

"The second is that the decision only affects Hackney carriages that were in use before 2001, when we took away limits on the number of vehicles.

"I believe this is only 78 taxis."

Hackney carriages count for around 150 cars operating in Milton Keynes, 71 of which are saloon cars, the rest are London-style black cabs and European-style wheelchair accessible cabs.

In 1998 the Disabled Discrimination Act meant all Hackney carriages would have to be wheelchair accessible but by 2005 the Government had admitted this was not affordable.

In 2001, MKC deregulated the number of vehicles but agreed that they should all be wheelchair accessible.

Since then, trade has reportedly doubled for taxis and the fleet has increased from 78 to 140.

Each of the new taxis is wheelchair accessible but they have been criticised by disabled people who do not use wheelchairs.

People with other disabilities can find it hard to get into the larger-style cars, stating a preference for saloons.

In November 2006, disabled groups attended a council meeting to express their feelings and appealed to the council to reconsider.

Cllr Chris Williams said there will now be a special meeting with members of the licensing committee, trade, and public in an attempt to find a way forward. In particular we are keen to involve the disability groups which will be affected by the decision," he added.

Police warning for holiday hoodlums

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

CITY schools have been sent letters from Milton Keynes police advising parents to make sure they know where their children are at all times during the holidays.

The police are urging parents and guardians to tell their children that if they cause anti-social behaviour they will have to face the consequences of their actions.

A statement from Thames Valley Police said it intented to help improve behaviour, divert young people from entering the criminal justice system, and improve the quality of life for everyone concerned.

As part of Operation Rebound, officers will issue warnings and fixed penalties but if a child continues to commit offences they will be formally cautioned and could receive a criminal record.

> Police are concerned about the increase in anti-social behaviour that we see across Milton Keynes during school holidays
> – Inspector Andy Gray

Partnership Inspector Andy Gray works with the schools to distribute the letters.

He said: "The Community Safety Partnership and Milton Keynes Police are concerned about the increase in anti-social behaviour that we see across Milton Keynes during school holidays. We have a police operation running to tackle this issue and have introduced dispersal orders in order to give officers further powers in relation to anti-social behaviour.

"We are sending letters to local schools, asking them to forward it to parents of children, reminding them of their responsibilities, to know where their children are and what they are doing during the holidays."

Seat belts and speeding on cops' agenda

Safety task-force targets drivers using mobiles

POLICE and road safety officers are joining forces to clamp down on motorists using mobile phones, speeding and refusing to wear seat belts while driving.

Road safety officers from Milton Keynes Council (MKC) are taking part in high profile roadside blitzes with police officers from Thames Valley Police (TVP) to remind drivers of the dangers of speeding, using mobile phones while driving and about not wearing seat belts.

The combined road safety task force will visit locations around the city known to have a speeding problem, or for breaking mobile phone and seat belt motoring laws.

In the last three years 573 people in Milton Keynes have been killed or injured as a direct result of speed.

Council road safety officer, Vince Morley, said: "It's great that we are working in partnership with our colleagues from Thames Valley Police (TVP).

"Getting road safety messages across to drivers can be difficult, and this type of working uses the best blend of education and enforcement. A bit like the carrot and stick approach."

Dependant on circumstances drivers caught breaking the laws will be offered or given:

- A chat with a road safety officer from MKC's road safety team to explain why they have been stopped, and the consequences of their driving.
- A place on a Driver Diversion course.
- A £30 ticket, or a £60 ticket together with three points on their licence.

To date a number of operations have taken place resulting in:

- 48 drivers being spoken to and warned by a road safety officer,
- 12 getting a £60 fine and three points on their license for speeding and,
- Nine getting a £30 fine for not wearing a seat belt.

Cllr Chris Williams, council cabinet member responsible for Transport, said: "Any initiative that helps to reduce speeds, gets people to wear their seat belts and stops drivers using a mobile phone, has to be welcomed.

"This is getting in among those drivers and making a difference where it really matters – on the road."

Police road safety Sergeant Chris Appleby said: "Whenever we ask local communities for their concerns, the issue of excessive speed is always an important one for them.

"The roadside operations with MKC are designed to deal with drivers in the most appropriate manner and tackle speeding issues."

More operations are planned for the rest of the year.

These will be targeted at known problem locations, but will be random as to what day of the week and what time of day.

Pizza man robbed after hoax call out

A PIZZA deliverer was assaulted and robbed at Tinkers Bridge.

The 24-year-old was delivering pizzas to an address in Bascote, which turned out to be a hoax call.

As the victim returned to his car, he was attacked by three men who assaulted him before taking his money and the pizzas.

Police are appealing for witnesses to the incident, which happened shortly after midnight last Sunday (July 29).

City charity is given a good run for its money

A CITY charity has been named as the official sponsor of The London Marathon.

Spinal Injuries Association (SIA), based in Oldbrook, supports the 40,000 people in the country who are paralysed through spinal cord injury.

Executive Director Paul Smith said the charity was enormously proud to be chosen for next year's event.

He said: "The impact of suddenly becoming paralysed can be devastating for both individuals and their families, but with the right specialist help and support, lives really can be re-built and lived to the full.

The London Marathon is giving us a terrific opportunity to raise understanding, awareness and support for spinal cord injury and we plan to make the most of it – every step of the way."

With the sponsorship raised by its marathon runners, SIA plans to inject half a million pounds into grassroots wheelchair sports and support individual athletes though an innovative new project called 'Rebuilding Lives Through Sport'.

Mr Smith added: "It can literally save lives, breaking the cycle of isolation and loneliness that paralysis can bring.

"But only a tiny proportion of wheelchair users take part in any kind of sport, I'm sure we can do better than this for future generations".

Gravel extraction deal will create new wetland park

Seven-year plan will help build new city homes and leave haven for rare wildlife

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

It is hoped otters and water voles and other wildlife will eventually inhabit the 80 acres from which gravel will be extracted over the next seven years

THE first turf has been cut for a scheme to create a wetland haven for wildlife in the Ouse Valley Park.

The wetland project, a partnership between The Parks Trust and construction materials company Hanson Aggregates, will involve small-scale gravel extraction to create new landforms on which a variety of floodplain habitats, pathways and bird hides will be developed.

It is hoped the pools, streams, marsh, reedbed and ponds created will attract some of the UK's most endangered wildlife, including otters and water voles.

The scheme, which has been in the pipeline for eight years, aims to make the 80-acre site at Manor Farm, Old Wolverton more ecologically valuable as well as more interesting and attractive parkland for existing and future residents of the city.

David Foster, The Parks Trust's chief executive, said: "When completed, the new park will be freely open to the public, with 4km of new leisure routes, boardwalks, three bird hides and interpretation.

"This new landscape will help locally and nationally rare wildlife at the same time as providing a unique park for present and future generations to enjoy."

The trust says all stages of the work have been carefully planned to ensure that parts of the existing park, including the riverside path, will remain open to the public.

The gravel will be used for homes and building in the Milton Keynes area. All royalties from extraction will be held by The Parks Trust and dedicated to the development of the new park and to its future maintenance.

Work is due to be completed in seven years. Each stage will be landscaped on completion.

Control order tackles troublesome drunks

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A DRINKING control order is to tackle troublemakers in the Woughton area.

Woughton Parish Council has been granted a drinking control order for the whole parish, which covers Beanhill, Coffee Hall, Eaglestone, Leadenhall, Netherfield, Peartree Bridge, Tinkers Bridge, Woughton on the Green and Woughton Park.

The order does not stop people from drinking alcohol in public areas but allows police to take steps to prevent people from drinking if they are causing a nuisance or are likely to cause a problem.

Police may confiscate alcohol and issue a fixed penalty notice of up to £80 to offenders.

Nicky Fulton, senior parish ranger said: "We get many complaints from local residents about people being drunk and drinking around many of our local centres, hopefully this will allow the police to take action against offenders".

Labour Cllr Steve Coventry, chairman of the parish environment committee, said: "Residents are fed up with groups of people drinking in public, creating a nuisance and often being drunk and intimidating.

"This is our opportunity to fight back and take action against those who are making some areas of our estates virtual no-go zones.

"Residents should be able to visit all areas without having to run the gauntlet of drunks making life intolerable for the vast majority of decent law-abiding residents."

He added: "It is now up to the police to use the powers granted, and I will be watching closely to make sure that these powers are used to the full."

The parish council is now putting up around 200 signs notifying people of the new order.

Coming of age for kids' 'university'

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

High, wide and handsome: Children at the University of the First Age show off their vision of the city's skyline as it will look in 2047

A SCHEME which provides children with learning activities has been launched.

University of the First Age (UFA), a national education charity to develop the achievement and potential of young people through out-of-school activities, has brought its work to Milton Keynes in partnership with local agencies.

In Milton Keynes the UFA have been delivering workshops to train a number of teaching and voluntary staff for the last two years.

Extended Schools co-ordinators, youth workers and an after school club manager are now working together to provide activities with a challenging framework that develop young people's understanding of how they learn best, their ability to communicate and work in a team, and their achievement.

Extended Schools strategy manager, Michael Greenfield, said: "The University of the First Age aims to engage with children and young people with different ways of learning to help them reach higher education.

"They will learn about literacy, numeracy and other subjects without knowing they are doing it."

Other partners include the Playing for Success centre manager, at Milton Keynes Dons football team, schools, and parish and town councils.

The scheme was officially launched on July 31 at Oxley Park School, when 45 school children from Wolverton, Fishermead, Bradville, Netherfield, and Grange Farm took part in a themed fun day based on Milton Keynes' 40th birthday.

The children made a skyline of what they think the city will look like in 2047, looking specifically at schools, houses and transport.

They also made a time capsule to be buried at the MK Dons Stadium this summer to commemorate the day.

Chief executive of MK Council, John Best, was there to help aid the development of the 'future planners of Milton Keynes.

Parking concerns put church plans on hold

PLANS for a community centre and church in Shenley Brook End have been withdrawn temporarily due to concerns about parking.

The Church of God of Prophecy (COGOP), which is currently based in rented property in Medbourne, plans to construct a two-storey building in Manifold Lane with facilities for a place of worship, nursery, youth centre, IT rooms and teaching space.

The application was due to be decided by MK Council last Thursday (July 26).

However, the plans were withdrawn by the applicant because of Highways Department concerns about inadequate parking and objections from residents.

The applicants also had not given 21 days notice to the landowner prior to the plan being submitted.

COGOP, which has had a branch in Milton Keynes for 25 years, held a meeting in Shenley Brook End village hall at the beginning of July to give local residents the chance to air their views.

Around 70 attended and expressed concerns about the size of the building, the effect on traffic, inadequate parking facilities to cope with the maximum capacity of the church hall, which could take up to 720 people, the noise of music during services, weddings, and parties and the large groups of people that would be using the site.

COGOP pastor, Marvia Richardson, said: "The plans have been withdrawn as there are issues on the application that need to be addressed. They have been drawn to our attention by the public.

"There is nothing major, but we will sort out the things the Highways Department require."

Joint campaign promotes use of condoms by young

WEAR a condom is the call from sexual health workers today.

Services working with young people in Milton Keynes are joining forces to help promote Sexual Health Week.

This year, Sexual Health Week is focusing on the importance of condoms in preventing pregnancy and protecting against sexually transmitted infections.

Brook, Compass, Connexions and the MK Drug Action Team highlighted the services available to young people in Milton Keynes, handing out promotional materials about safer sex, drugs and alcohol, and other support on offer in Milton Keynes, such as careers advice at Midsummer Place, thecentre:mk.

Young people 'peer mentors' working with Brook also took part in the promotional event, to help increase young people's awareness about important issues such as safer sex. Evoke, a local condom supplier, supported the event with promotional items.

Research carried out by Brook, funded by the Big Lottery Fund, found that only a third of sexually active young people reported using condoms consistently, putting themselves at risk.

Brook research also shows that boys and young men only accounted for 14 per cent of visits by under-20s to NHS contraceptive services in 2005-6 and that many young men don't know much about the sexual health services available, don't regard them as relevant, or believe that visiting a service will involve an embarrassing and intrusive examination.

Jackie Boath, chief executive of Brook, said: 'The unique partnership between Brook, Compass, Connexions and the MK Drug Action Team has been developed to help draw attention to issues that all young people today need to be aware of. We want to make sure that the young people we meet at Midsummer Place are given positive messages about sexual health and the importance of protecting themselves against unplanned pregnancy and sexually transmitted infections.

"We need to raise awareness of the range of free and confidential services available to young people in Milton Keynes."

> We want to make sure that the young people we meet are given positive messages about sexual health and the importance of protecting themselves against unplanned pregnancy and sexually transmitted infections

Doc urges city folk to take sex infection tests

A CITY sexual health expert is calling for more people to come forward for infection testing

As the Family Planning Association runs National Sexual Health Week, until August 12, Dr Patricia Williams, a sexual health consultant from Milton Keynes General Hospital, is urging local people to come forward for infection testing.

Dr Williams said: "National Sexual Health Week highlights the importance of safe sex, but there is also a real need for more people to come forward for testing to help combat and stop the spread of sexually transmitted infections.

"The Sexual Health Centre at the hospital offers specialist advice and services to patients requiring tests and treatment, and is increasingly flexible to meet the needs of users."

A recent Health Protection Agency report revealed the number of new sexually transmitted infections (STIs) diagnosed in the UK rose in 2006.

While Milton Keynes has seen decreases in chlamydia, genital warts and gonorrhoea from 2001-2005, there have been increases in syphilis and genital herpes.

Dr Williams added: "Greater numbers of people still need to step forward for sexual health screening and HIV tests. We are most concerned about young adults and gay men and we are reaching out to these groups with messages about safe sex, including condom wearing, and the importance of getting tested if they feel they've put themselves at risk."

To book an appointment call the Sexual Health Centre on 01908 243860.

Advertising pays for college recruitment

MK College is having a great summer thanks to help from MK NEWS.

Applications for full-time courses at MK College are at record levels following last week's wrap-around cover on the front of the paper and its Making MK Brighter recruitment event.

Chris Rice, marketing manager at the college, said: "We're absolutely delighted with the impact of the MK NEWS advertising.

"We've had over 100 acceptances for places on full-time courses in the last three days following the advert and the event outside Xscape.

"Places are filling up fast so anyone thinking about college should get an application in quickly.

"There are still places left, though, and we will continue to work with students to find a course that suits their needs."

This year's the college's summer student recruitment campaign was designed by two of the college's graphic design students, Brett Wilson and Jen Norton.

The pair were delighted to see their design on the cover of the MK NEWS, as well as on buses, posters, cinema screens around the city and even on the giant screen at Xscape building.

Brett beamed proudly: "It's a great moment for us to see our design on the cover of MK NEWS. This just shows you how much MK College faith has in its students. Both Jen and I have thoroughly enjoyed our time at college."

Shaun Cressy and Daniel Bayliss take charge of a training session at The Linda School in Livingstone, Zambia

A-level students teach Zambians football skills

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

TWO students and staff members of a specialist sports college have flown to Africa to teach football skills.

The group, from Leon School and Sports College, Bletchley, visited their international link school in Livingstone, Zambia, at the beginning of July.

Two A-level students, Shaun Cressy and Daniel Bayliss, who are qualified to FIFA level two, and Keiron Wicks, director of the sports academy at Leon, coached both adults and youngsters.

"This soccer coaching was done in conditions far removed from continental European standard facilities; the African students' kit ranged from T-shirts to Chelsea or Inter Milan shirts and they played on a rock strewn, grassless, dusty football pitch in temperatures approaching 28 degrees," said a Leon spokesman.

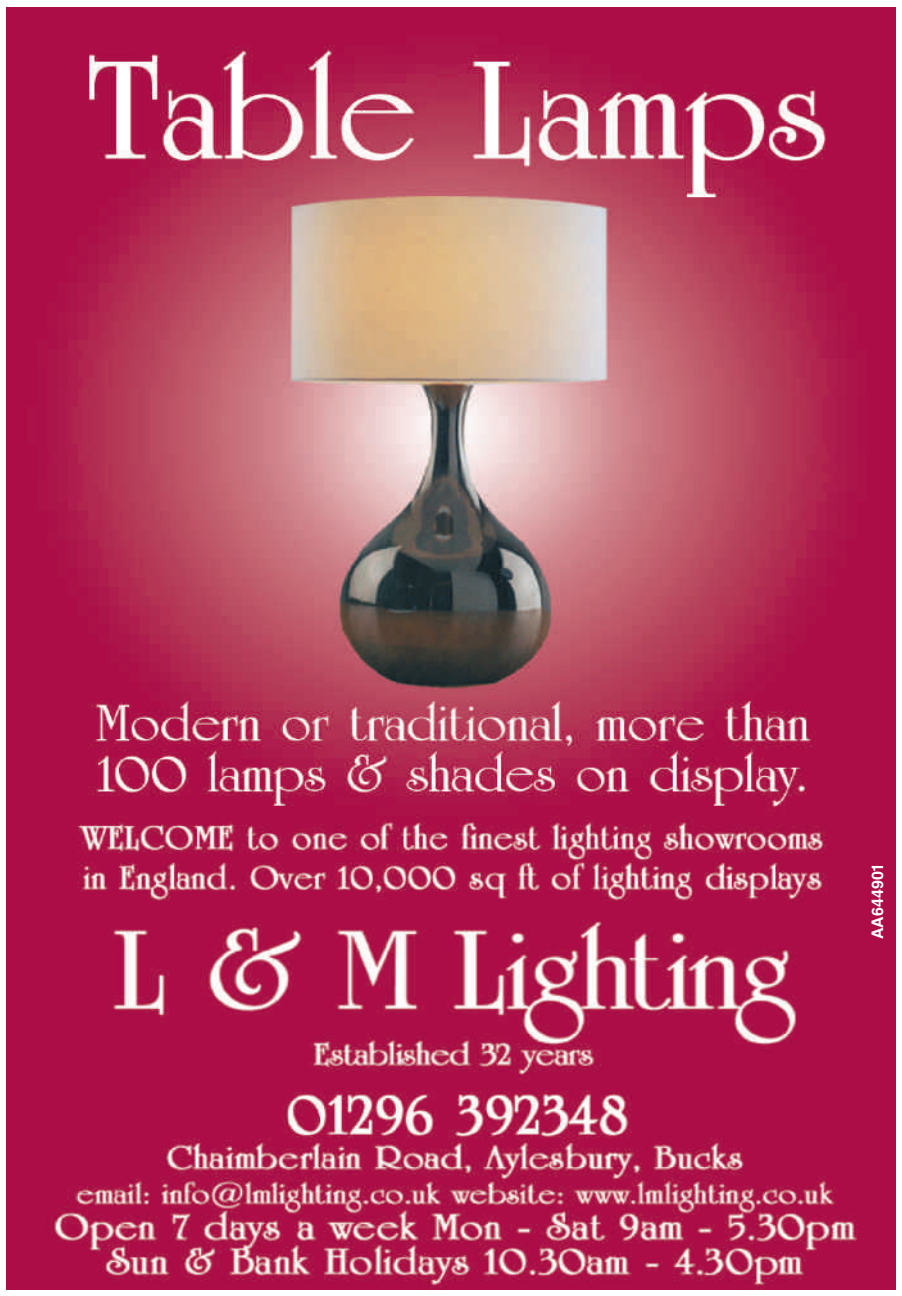
"The English FA sponsored much of the equipment through their development grant so new footballs, bibs, tracksuits and pitch training markers and cones were transported out.

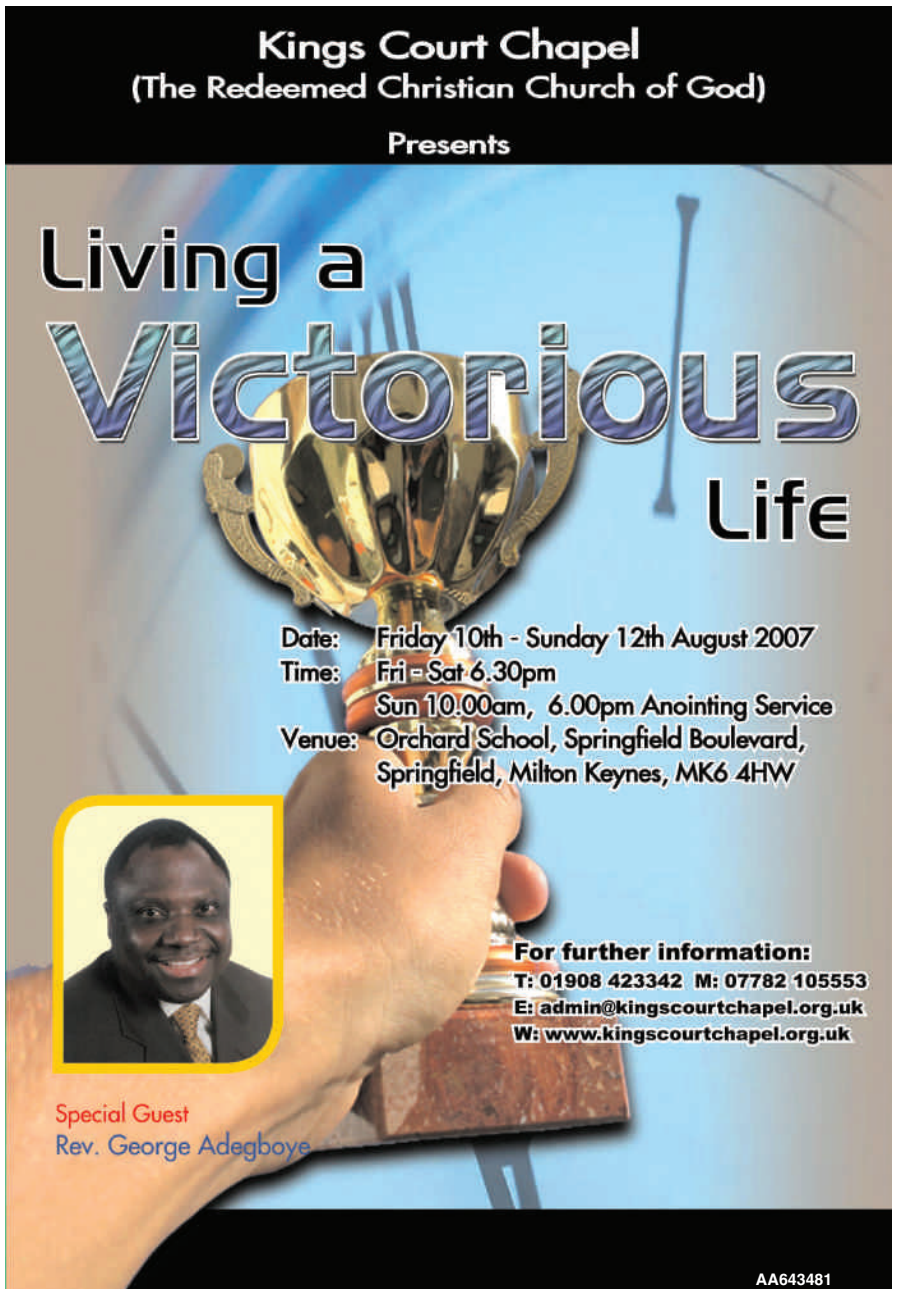
"All African students, male and female, were successful after four days of intensive work in a, for them, un-familiar disciplined and structured programme."

Leon headteacher Simon Viccars also visited the African school, and taught English lessons.

The trip was funded by the British Council and Youth Sports Trust's three year Dreams and Teams project, and was Leon's second visit to The Linda School.

The final stage of the funded exchange is planned for next year, with a visit of Leon managers to encourage curriculum content exchange and development.





Soul singer pursuing her lifetime ambition

Artist wants to give a break to kids who can't afford performing arts school fees

Ambition: Donna McCarroll hopes to set up a performing arts service

A NEW community service that will support up-and-coming talent in performing arts and media is coming to Milton Keynes.

The project is the lifetime ambition of singer Donna McCarroll, 43, from Bletchley, who wants to help young people get involved in all aspects of performing arts, including entertainment, broadcast, music, publishing and information technology.

"I want to give children who are interested in performing arts and media the tools for whichever career path they choose to follow," explained Mrs McCarroll.

"It is for the kids who can't really afford the extortionate prices charged by performing arts schools.

"I come from a working class background and my family couldn't afford to send me to a performing arts school.

"I know it is very frustrating when you have got talent and can't get out there and do something."

Mrs McCarroll has been a singer for 24 years, and is currently in a soul and Motown function band which performs all over the country.

She has enlisted the help of Mediatechnique Entertainment, media consultants based in London, which has decided to lend its expertise and resources to the project.

Her aim is to establish a place of learning, networking and life skills training with special emphasis on radio, television and music industry skills.

The first task is to submit an application to Ofcom to establish a community radio service, which will provide young people with the opportunity to obtain real-life work experience.

Mrs McCarroll's aim is also to operate a live entertainment venue for young people on a regular basis, ensuring new talent has a stage to perform on and to set up an IPTV channel on the web so that students can learn the skills of shooting film, editing and reporting.

And she wants to run courses in multimedia aimed at meeting the needs of the digital age – training potential presenters, producers, camera operators and sound technicians who are focusing on careers in radio and television.

The organisers hope to gain funding through sources such as Ofcom's community radio fund, local government and the Arts Council.

They also hope to create strategic partnerships with existing television and radio networks, record companies, web and graphic designers and developers and broadcast, advertising and PR agencies.

The organisers are calling for city volunteers to help get the project off the ground.

L-J Mair, project consultant from Mediatechnique Entertainment, said: "The project is only in an embryonic stage, so we are taking the opportunity of appealing to the community in order to find volunteers.

"The project will need a committee of wise heads in order to make this a reality."

NEW SEASON STARTS August 11, 2007

THERE is a certain buzz surrounding MK Dons at the moment, it is a self belief that this year could be the one for promotion.

After the heartache of missing out on automatic promotion, and then the play-off finals at Wembley last year, Dons fans were feeling disheartened.

Adding to that, it was another unsettled start to summer with manager Martin Allen packing up his bags and heading north to Championship side Leicester.

But all of a sudden the future looked brighter with the surprise appointment of England legend Paul Ince, fans are once again optimistic and after seeing the style of football played in wins against Chelsea XI and West Ham United, who can blame them?

This Saturday will see hundreds of thousands of fans up and down the country pulling on their new shirts for the season, heading down to the pub for a pre-match pint and counting down the minutes until that 3pm kick-off.

Once again the Dons open their season to Bury and to add to the excitement, it is the first league game to be held at the new stadium:mk.

It will be a challenging start to the season for the Dons as games come thick and fast, just as the league campaign gets under way, the Carling Cup fixtures also begin with Ipswich Town the first hurdle for the Dons on Tuesday.

Tensions will then rise as they travel to Ince's old club Macclesfield, before the Dons get their first stab at avenging their defeat in the play-offs, in what is expected to be a hotly contested game at home to Shrewsbury Town.

But that is looking too far in the future, for football fans in MK it is all about the here and now... and that all important first win starting on Saturday!

Our future.
It's in our hands.

WOLVERTON Town Band has a new musical director.

Shaun Humphries has a wealth of brass banding experience, both in MIlton Keynes and across the country.

The band started more than 100 years ago as part of the Buckinghamshire Battalion and became Wolverton Town Band in the early 1900s.

The band has strong links with Wolverton Works and for a long time held rehearsals in the works canteen with membership built mainly from employees.

Now in 2007 the band still has players who work for Railcare – but the band has changed shape drastically.

The band recently received financial support from Milton Keynes Arts Association for new equipment.

Wolverton & Greenleys Town Council has also been supporting them with marketing, promotions and co-ordination of the bi-annual trips to Belgium to visit its 'twinned' brass band.

Shaun Humphries said: "I have high aspirations for Wolverton Town Band and hope to to have it running at full capacity for the Christmas season.

" The band has some very talented musicians already, I'm looking forward to working with them and filling the empty seats they currently have."

The band offers free membership and use of instruments.

Rehearsals are every Thursday evening from 8- 9.30pm with training sessions on Monday and Thursday from 7pm offering free tuition to anybody who would like to learn to play a brass instrument.

For more details on the band contact the committee on www.wolvertontownband.org.uk

MUSIC REVIEWS

PLASTER CASTS OF EVERYTHING

Liars

THIS is without a doubt, the most completely mental tune I've heard in quite some time.

The drummer's bashing several different shades of something out of his drumkit, the singer wails and howls all the way through, and if it's possible for guitars to have a complete nervous breakdown then that's what you're hearing.

Everything points to this being utter rubbish, but it actually works.

I can say with some certainty that it won't be a hit, but something tells me this band aren't in the music business because they want to be played by JK and Joel on the chart rundown, so it doesn't really matter.

HOLD ON

KT Tunstall

CONSIDERING this song's a little over three minutes long, the fact that it takes two minutes to fully spring into life is a little worrying.

The tune's not bad, and it sounds a bit bigger than her previous stuff, but it's one of those rare songs that could probably have done with being a minute or so longer than it is, just to flesh it out a bit more.

What's here is OK, but I can't help feeling there really should've been more to it. I'm sure I'll get over the disappointment eventually.

STRONGER

Kanye West

ARE you listening to this song, 50 Cent? This is how rap can sound when you use your imagination.

Daft Punk must be pleased to see somebody take Harder Better Faster Stronger and do something half-decent with it, especially as it's by no means their best song.

It sounds like Kanye West is having words with his other half, but it's not just anger, there's also defiance and a hint of arrogance thrown in.

Remember that Eamon song, I Don't Want You Back, from a few years ago? This is the equivalent for grown-up listeners and it's done far better.

Anyone who can actually improve a Daft Punk song must be doing something right.

LOVE IS GONE

David Guetta

THIS year's big hit of the summer, then. No doubt tearing up dancefloors from Ibiza all the way to Bedford and beyond too, I shouldn't wonder.

Now, far be it for me to spoil the mood, but am I the only person who thinks this sounds awfully like a retread of Love Don't Let Me Go (Walking Away) from last summer? It's all there, the repetitive one-note stabs, obviously the same bloke's singing, but the melody sounds very similar to its predecessor too.

The daft thing is, because this isn't two songs lumped together (and one of those was a remix anyway, so you could almost count it as three) this is a better song.

It suffers somewhat from being brought out after the 'original', such as it was.

David Guetta's original Love Don't Let Me Go is far better than the more widely-known version.

It's a shame to hear him come out with something that, by the standards he's set, sounds a bit formulaic. Daft thing is, even a retread like this is still light years ahead of anything done by Infernal.

FREDDIECOMPETITION

MOST people are aware of the saying 'a cock and bull story' but few know the famous phrase derives from Stony Stratford's Cock Hotel.

The Cock Hotel was one of the staging posts of the London-to-Manchester Flier stagecoach, together with nearby The Bull, and travellers would tell stories of the road, mostly exaggerated due to the amount ale consumed.

Now in 2007 The Cock Hotel has completed a fantastic refurbishment. It has respected its historic heritage, while bringing in a fresh and relaxing atmosphere.

MK NEWS readers have been invited to go along and experience the hotel's hospitality and we are giving away two pairs of tickets, worth £19.95 each, for its next two events.

The first pair are for Friday, August 17 – Freddie Mercury Tribute Night with three-course dinner and disco till 12.30 pm.

Performed by Mark Saunders with his Pure Magic show, he faithfully reproduces not only the Freddie's distinctive vocals with astounding accuracy, but also through endless studies of live stage performances Mark has captured the very essence of Freddie's stage presence.

The second pair of tickets is for Friday, August 31 – Neil Diamond Tribute with other covers a full night of entertainment including a three-course dinner.

All your favourites, Sweet Caroline, Crackling Rosie, Song Sung Blue and dozens more including the music from the film the Jazz Singer.

Johnny Rickard is the man to see, the look-a-like and sound-a-like and the winner of New Faces

HOLIDAYLIFE

Butlins Shoreline hotel in Bognor Regis Right: Billy Bear with fans

Butlins Bognor makes you smile

FORGET knobbly knees and glamorous grans, the classic image of the Butlins holiday camp is long gone.

Don't get me wrong the Redcoats are still an intrinsic part of the set up but Butlins Bognor Regis is an altogether different experience these days than what was started back in 1936 by Billy Butlin.

The last time I holidayed in Butlins was with my parents in Skegness thirty years ago when I was just six.

Butlins has done a lot to shed its image since those days.

An example of this 21st century shift is the fantastic Shoreline hotel on the site. The company's first boutique hotel which opened in 2005 sends out a clear statement as to where the future lies for Butlins.

My wife and two children (four and four months) stayed in the hotel as part of our four-night midweek break. Other families I spoke to were also on their first visit, enticed by the improved accommodation.

The hotel itself is a far cry from the traditional on-site chalets however, many of those have been upgraded to a gold star level.

We stayed in the Columbus quarters. These spacious rooms come complete with a sea view, bunk beds for the kids, flat screen TV and DVD in the main and children's room, fridge and tea and coffee making facilites.

The bunk beds were a hit with the four-year-old and the hotel provided a cot for the youngest which fitted easily into the room, all of which were modern, roomy and most of all clean.

There's a family friendly restaurant serving an all-you-can-eat breakfast (I managed to eat quite a lot!) as well as a lunch and a la carte nightly menu which means that if you want to bypass the rest of the complexes' eateries you can do so easily.

Whatever the weather may throw at you is no longer a problem at Butlins either.

Built during a huge multi-million pound investment in the 90s, the Skyline Pavilion is likely to become your very familiar friend.

Several attempts to leave the huge undercover complex packed with bars, shops, coffee houses and restaurants were thwarted by the military style timing of an array of shows for the kids.

There was more chance of me winning the lottery then getting my daughter away from performances by Angelina Ballerina, Bob The Builder or The Skyline Gang on a daily basis.

If you do manage to get out then its probably only to the fantastic Splash Waterworld.

Packed with rapids, flume rides, wave machines and slides this place gets very popular, particularly if the usual summertime weather is in full swing.

If the days don't tire you out then at night Butlins cranks up the heat.

If you want to keep your kids up till late then there are plenty of shows to take them to.

While we were there Channel Five's Milkshake gang performed a huge show much to the delight of my daughter who was in awe seeing some of her TV heroes dancing and singing only yards from her.

We also watched an excellent production of Cinderella one afternoon as well as an acrobatic Power Rangers show back in the Skyline.

I must admit before the holiday I had my own pre-conceived ideas of Butlins, many of these were shattered within a few hours of being on site.

What I would say to people with young families is try out the Shoreline and give Butlins a go.

The most profound memory for me will be of the constant smile on the face of my daughter. The only time she cried was when we told her we had to go home.

If that means Bognor instead of Barcelona in the future, then so be it.

DAVID GALE

■ There are some two-night breaks available at Shoreline with prices starting from £32pp per break. For more information call 0870 162 1810 or visit www.theshorelinehotel.com for a virtual tour around the hotel.

SPOONERS

Woburn Sands
Reviewed by Laura Hannam

SPOONERS is a family-run restaurant that offers first-class silver service and fine cuisine.

The owners, Martin and Susan Spooner, have run the restaurant for 23 years adapting the menu and decor to keep up with the times.

The result is a modern, suave yet cosy environment with a pleasant ambience.

For starters I ordered crab claw salad with mildly curried mayonnaise and olive ciabattini (£6.95). The dish provided an excellent portion of fresh crab, and the curried mayonnaise was a deliciously subtle accompaniment.

My guest ordered seared scallops with a tomato and herb dressing (£7.15), which he said was flavoursome.

For the main course I ordered roast breast of duck with prune and Shiraz sauce (£16.95). The meat was delightfully tender.

My guest ordered a rare Scotch Caledonian fillet steak, sourced from Woburn Country Foods, baked with blue cheese and butter sauce (£21).

He said the steak was very tender. "You could almost cut it by just looking at it," he said.

For dessert I ordered pink champagne and raspberry jelly with ice cream (£5.50) and my guest ordered vanilla creme brulee (£5.50).

The presentation throughout was modern, the portions good and the service friendly.

While we were there I overheard one guest telling the owner: "This is my favourite restaurant, thank you."

Afterwards Martin told me the group had been coming to the restaurant for years: "They are like family now," he said.

The restaurant offers an excellent selection on both lunch and evening menus.

I would certainly like to return as Spooners is the perfect place to enjoy a quiet meal or , if you are having a party, a function room can be booked upstairs.

Studying adds up for the man holding Olympic purse strings

CITY born Kevin Shouler has a job that many sporting fans can only dream of.

He is financing and managing Team GB for the forthcoming 2012 Olympic Games.

Working with high profile athletes, he has now worked at the British Olympic Association (BOA) for 19 years but he admits it has not all been plain sailing.

He started work at the BOA as a part-time bookkeeper, working four mornings a week doing manual cash entries and basic accounting procedures.

After picking up new skills and, driven by his love for accounting and desire to climb the business ladder.

Staying the best man for the job at a fast-paced, growing organisation was not easy and as he had no qualifications to back him up, he knew he was in a potentially shaky position.

Kevin Shouler: Opportunity to study to become chartered

Taking the initiative, Kevin decided to study for an official accounting qualification.

Recommended by a colleague, Kevin trained with the Association of Accounting Technicians (AAT), the leading awarding body for skills-based accounting qualifications, and has never looked back.

On completing his qualification with the AAT, he was rewarded with promotion to company accountant and is now using his achievement as a springboard to further his studies with the ACCA to become a Chartered Accountant.

Kevin said: "It has helped me no end to be able to put MAAT letters after my name.

"The AAT has given me an excellent grounding and subsequently the opportunity to study to become chartered, which is fantastic!"

The qualification has opened up new opportunities for him and he has even lectured at a private college teaching the course to others.

Kevin now reports directly to the finance director of the British Olympic Association and manages a number of staff and major projects.

Working flat out for the 2012 Olympics, he is currently busy organising the financial aspects of pre-games training camps, accommodation and conferences for athletes, trainers and key sports personnel alike.

Kevin said: "I would encourage anyone working in finance without a qualification to act with practical wisdom and train towards one.

"The impact it can make on your working life may not be immediately obvious but it certainly pays dividends in the end.

"I would not have been able to keep up with such a growing organisation without growing myself."

■ Students interested in finding out more about the AAT Accounting Qualification should visit www.aat.org.uk/career or call 020 7415 7666 for more information.

Schools and students honoured for investment in education

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

Winner: Jade Harris, who was offered ajob at the end of her work experience, is presented with her award at the Investors in Education Awards by Claire Stackpole

CITY schools, students and businesses celebrated their work together during an awards ceremony at the Open University.

The mayor of Milton Keynes, Cllr Mike Barry was among the guests for the Milton Keynes Investors in Education Awards 2007.

Nominations were invited from over 500 companies in Milton Keynes and all 12 secondary schools and alternative education providers, representing more than 3,000 students.

The project was run by Countec Education Business Partnership (EBP) and included categories for Work Experience Placement of the Year and Young Apprentice of the Year.

Enterprising School of the Year was presented by PricewaterhouseCoopers Milton Keynes to joint winners Leon School and Sports College and Walton High.

Leon was praised for developing enterprise learning through a range of work-related learning activities, emphasising creativity and drive to achieve results.

It was also recognised for organising visits and visitors from the world of work to support this.

Walton High demonstrated outstanding development of quality curriculum and extra-curriculum initiatives to benefit their students and other schools.

Stephen Eames, director of sponsors PricewaterhouseCoopers Milton Keynes, said: "This programme has shown us what a difference these initiatives can make and it is wonderful to see students and schools recognised for their outstanding achievements."

Student winner of the Extended Work Experience Placement of the Year was Jade Harris from Sir Frank Markham School.

Jade was selected because of her 'consistent hard work over an extended period and the significant difference made to her employer, Gambado'.

She impressed Gambado so much so that she was offered a job at the end of her work experience.

The Work Experience Outstanding Contribution Award was presented to Trevor Church of Cyclo Sports for the company's dedication to individual students for over 20 years.

Mr Church said: "Linking educators and businesses in creative partnerships offer a win-win opportunity for young people to learn from the practitioners, and also provides an opportunity for the business to give something back to the community."

MKMOTORING

Ticking all the right boxes? Of Corsa

THOUGH maybe not as cute in appearance as their predecessors, the second generation Corsa models grew up in all the areas that were becoming irritating in the previous model. And added a few virtues of their own.

The chassis and suspension were designed from a clean sheet of paper, though the engines bolted on to them weren't quite as fresh, borrowed as they were either from the previous model or from the Astra range of the day. Not that this should put you off. Latterly at least, engines were never really a Corsa problem.

In terms of packaging, this Corsa was a huge step forward from its predecessor. Thanks to a huge wheelbase by the standards of its day, the little Vauxhall had as much space inside as competitors like Fiat Punto's and Skoda's Fabia.

The three inches of extra shoulder width over the previous model make all the difference in creating a car that feels large enough to be something from the next class up.

Nice touches? Well, there's plenty of storage space, with large door bins and a shallow tray beneath the front passenger seat. Plus there's a sunglasses holder by the driver's head. You'll also like the way the rear wash and wipe activates when you select reverse in the rain.

And the 'infotainment' system you can upgrade to include everything from a telephone to satellite navigation.

Gripes include 'cupholders' which are actually almost useless indentations in the glove box lid.

The loading possibilities are impressive up to 1,060 litres of space is available with everything folded. Ironically, the three door's boot is more spacious.

The suspension set up you get depends on which of the engines you go for. There's one for the 1.0 and 1.2 and one for the diesals and the 1.8. All proved to be a revelation to the owners of the previous car both in terms of ride and the handling response.

Overall, as a used proposition the second generation Corsa is one of the best supermini buys available. It's certainly a more modern feeling car than, say, a 2001 model Fiesta and is streets ahead of a Punto of equivalent age in terms of fit and finish.

Best buy? That would have to be a toss up between the 1.4 SRi, the 1.2 Easytronic and the later CDTi diesels.

Whichever model you opt for, a used Corsa is difficult to get wrong.

Kettering spoil party

MK DONS could not hang on to their undefeated record in the pre-season as they slipped to a 1-0 defeat against Kettering Town.

It was a low-key affair, as the heat played its part in the game, with only Mark Rawle's solo strike in the first half separating the two sides.

The Dons never really got beyond third gear as they were missing a number of first team players, but their best effort came late in the second half.

A perfectly timed cross from Kevin Gallen allowed former-Everton striker to run through the Kettering defence, but his stunning volley rattled the post.

Speaking after the game Ray Mathias said: "We said right throughout pre-season results mean nothing.

"Performances, the work rate and the fitness is the most important thing for us.

"I'm not making excuses but we did have a very hard training session yesterday morning which I feel probably took a bit out of the lads, but it's pre-season and we are still working on our fitness.

"The experience they are getting from these games is doing them fantastically well.

"They're still coming on, we'll work on the training ground and that's where they'll get better."

■ AN unexpected mass of Watford fans was the main talking point when the Dons played Aidy Boothroyd's side.

Following games against Chelsea and West Ham, in which the Dons scored seven goals, last week's game against Watford petered out in a goalless draw.

On the night 2,500 Watford fans tried to obtain tickets on the gate and with many not seated by half time, the Dons allowed fans in for free.

Former Dons winger Jobi McAnuff proved one of the most threatening players for Watford, breaking off in startling runs down the right and providing tricky crosses into the box.

Izale McLeod found the ball at his feet on several occasions, but he was missing his finishing touch for the Dons and Aaron Wilbraham had chance for a dream comeback from injury, only to fire his late effort straight into the arms of Watford keeper Mart Poom.

THE Dons retained the Marshall Cup last week when they beat Newport Pagnell 1-0.

Stephane Koffi's strike three minutes from time ensured the Dons got hold of the trophy another year.

MK DONS have been given a bye to the second round of the Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

The Dons are one of 16 clubs from the northern and southern section to be given a bye.

As last season, both northern and southern sections will be further sub-divided into two sections for the first round.

However, the Football League has confirmed that this year, round two – when the 16 first round victors will be joined by the 16 aforementioned clubs with byes - will also be sub-divided.

After that, as in previous years, the northern and southern sections will remain until the winners of each section meet in the final.

MUSTAPHA Carayol has signed a two-year contract with the Dons. The 18-year-old winger impressed during pre-season, scoring two goals in the Dons XI 5-1 win over Ampthill and the equaliser against Bedford.

PREVIEWS

BURY
Saturday, August 11
stadium:mk
Kick-off 3pm

THE most eagerly anticipated day this year for football fans has arrived, the first game of a new and promising season.

It is the exact same fixture that opened the Dons season last year and fans will be hoping Saturday's game is a bit easier on the nerves.

Last year former 'keeper Adolfo Baines was sent off on his debut, there were two penalties and a terrific half-volley from Izale McLeod to win the game in the last ten minutes.

Dons did the double over Bury last season, when Leon Knight scored his first goal in their 2-0 win at Gigg Lane.

With the choice of, Knight, Kevin Gallen and Drewe Broughton to start up front, it will be interesting to see who Paul Ince chooses as his first choice strike force.

IPSWICH TOWN
Carling Cup
Tuesday, August 14
stadium:mk
Kick-off 7.45pm

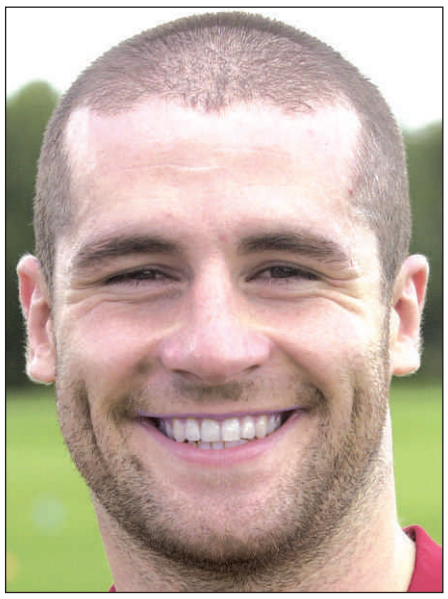
THERE is a well known saying about buses, you wait for ages and two come along at once.

A similar thing could be said about football fixtures, just as the league kicks-off so too does the Carling Cup.

The Dons had a successful campaign in the Carling Cup last year beating Colchester and Barnsley. The third round tie saw Tottenham beat a hard-working Dons side 5-0.

Once again the Dons have drawn a tough Championship side in the opening round, and Ipswich will certainly be looking to avoid an upset.

But Town have been dealt a massive blow with the news that midfielder Gavin Williams sustained ankle ligament damage in their 2-0 friendly win against Panathinaikos.



Fans' favourite Paul Mitchell with the first of his weekly columns

Ch, ch, changes

WITH all the changes over the past month or so it's quite hard to know where to start.

Let me kick off by mentioning the new stadium; it's fantastic and even though it has only been open a short while, it has been blessed with some quality football and a great event in the Alan Ball Memorial Cup.

Now onto the goings on at pitch level. To say that Martin Allen's departure came as something of a shock to the players is an under statement. But that's just football you barely have chance to catch your breath before a new season is upon you and changes have happened. I'm not going to talk about last season, everybody involved with MK Dons felt the hurt over the summer but that's the past and there it should stay.

To be honest, I don't think the future could look much brighter. A brilliant stadium, a great chairman and a manager that worked miracles in his last appointment to save Macclesfield from certain relegation.

Coming from Manchester myself, working with Paul Ince is fantastic after watching him a lot growing up. The new Gaffer has already put his own stamp on the team which was plain to see in all the friendlies we have played. But it's also very important that we don't get carried away because the only game that matters is the one on the August, 11: Bury at home.

The Gaffer has also acted quickly in the transfer market having been at something of a disadvantage only taking over the team late in the summer, but finding the right manager takes time and the feeling from the dressing room is that we have done that! The quality of the players he has brought in is very high and there will be battles for places throughout the team which can only be a good thing.

The experience gained in this division last year will surely be of great use in the coming season. Bury will be no push over having played in this division for a few years. They will be a good, strong team and tough opponents on Saturday. The season is finally upon us and personally, I cannot wait.

Just a quick word on the injury; my rehab is going well and I have finally had what can only be described as a Robocop-style boot off. Thank God!

Hope to see you all down at our new home on Saturday cheering the boys on!

Tubb's 49 opens up gap at the top

MORRANTS FOUR COUNTIES LEAGUE

DIVISION ONE

EATON Bray tried to make up the gap between them and top-placed Great Brickhill, with a win against Milton Keynes.

It was a low scoring game as Bray were dismissed for 132, despite Andy Norris and Nick Pearson adding 82 runs to the scoreboard.

Despite the low total, MK faltered in the reply as James Flecknall claimed 3-27, and they were all out for 90.

The 42 run win for Bray earned them 30 points and they are now four points behind Brickhill.

THE mid-table clash between Cublington and North Crawley resulted in both sides sharing the points.

Phil Ellwood's 58 helped Cubington reach 214-8 at the end of their innings, but a stubborn knock of 76 from Stewart Phillipson kept Crawley within touching as they finished 211-8.

Cubington took 16 points from the draw while Crawley took 14.

NEWPORT Pagnell lost to New Bradwell by four wickets.

Mike Page hit half a century while Paul Braddy supported with 38, but Bradwell's Naseem Malik who interrupted the order as he claimed 4-14, with Newport finishing at 223-9.

Malik also added an unbeaten 42 to Alan Quelch's 64 as Bradwell reached the target with four wickets to spare.

GREAT Brickhill remain at the top of the table after beating Winslow Town by six wickets.

Winslow were dismissed for 114, with James Litherland top scoring with 54, but once again Shannon Tubb's heroics with the bat, an unbeaten knock of 49, inspired Brickhill to the win.

DIVISION TWO

TOP of the table Tring Park drew with bottom placed Turvey, but still take 19 points for the winning draw.

OLD Bradwell also shared the points with Edlesborough after they failed to dismiss them within the given overs, while Aston Clinton lost to Soulbury by five wickets and continue their slump down the table.

ASPLEY Guise beat Studham by eight wickets to keep up the pressure on Tring.

DIVISION THREE

STEEPLE Claydon remain at the foot of the table following a 40 run defeat to the Open University. The OU are now just three points behind top placed Shenley Church End, who took 20 points thanks to a winning draw against Eaton Bray.

BIDDENHAM beat New Bradwell by 99 runs to stay in third, while Eggington lost by six wickets to third from bottom Caddington.

DIVISION FOUR

STOKE Hammond's Amet Patel hit a century in vein as he saw his side slip to their fourth defeat against Great Brickhill.

MILTON Keynes won only their second game of the season against Harlington, by just 15 runs, while North Crawley drew with Whitchurch to remain in first and second respectively.

OLD Bradwell remain 41 points adrift at the bottom of the table after losing to Totternhoe by four wickets.

DIVISION FIVE

MK CITY convincingly beat Little Horwood by nine wickets thanks to an unbeaten 93 from top order batsman Bovington and Olney Town collected 30 points by beating Stewkley by eight runs.

CUBLINGTON lost to Wing by 71 runs and remain in fifth, seven points behind Wing.

SECOND placed Printers suffered a shock defeat at the hands of Milton Bryan, the third from bottom side collected 25 points from their two wicket win.

WINSLOW Town are just 15 points adrift from the foot of the table after losing by seven wickets to Tring Park.

DIVISION SIX

THERE are just ten points separating the top three of the division, with just two points between first placed Newport Pagnell and second placed Turvey.

TURVEY could have moved top, but they slipped up against Ivinghoe and Pitstone and were forced to share the points as they failed to match the set total in the overs.

NEWPORT Pagnell's eight wicket win against MK Park gives them the narrow lead at the top while Eggington's poor batting performance saw them dismissed for just 25 runs and lose out by seven wickets to Caddington.

CHERWELL LEAGUE

MK PARK have just five games left to secure their survival in the first division after losing by seven wickets to Bicester.

Electing to bat, opening partners James Spritles and Lee Taylor got Park off to a great start as the pair hit four an over for the first ten overs.

But a sudden batting collapse saw them fall to 48-4 and Bicester's Krish Talsania claimed 3-6 as Park fell all out for 104.

Bicester were quick in their reply and despite the early wicket of Bicester skipper Darryl Woods, who fell LBW to Graham Simpson, the away team were 40-1 after ten overs.

Mike Alston brought some control to proceedings with his left arm spin with debutante Graham Sear bowling tidily at the other end.

Alston took the wicket of Stephen West for 47 with the total on 79 and had Talsania caught behind by James Ward for 24.

But Bicester easily overhauled their target in the 34th over to condemn Park to a seven wicket defeat.

NORTHANTS LEAGUE

STONY Stratford slumped to eighth place after a four wicket defeat to Northampton Saints.

Dion Ebrahim was the top scorer for Stony as he smashed 64 from 83 deliveries, in an otherwise weak batting performance which saw only four batsmen reach double figures.

But Ebrahim's knock could not prevent the side from slipping all out for 166.

Northants' reply faulted at the start as Alec Swann fell first delivery to Peter Mitchell, and they were soon struggling at 75-5.

It was Chris Park's unbeaten 83 that steered his side to victory, next up for Stony is Irthlingborough Town where they will hope to get their season back on track.

MOTOR RACING

Fighting start: Mark Webber and David Coulthard race into the first bend in Hungary on Sunday

On balance, not bad

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

RED Bull Racing had another problem-free race at the Hungarian Grand Prix, but both drivers missed out on the points in a race dominated by Lewis Hamilton.

After claiming third and fifth, their best result of the season, at the European race two weeks ago, the Milton Keynes racing outfit had hoped to be once again competing for a podium spot this time around.

But both Mark Webber and David Coulthard's cars were lacking the pace needed to edge ahead of the pack.

The main talking point of the weekend was once again at the front of the grid, as Fernando Alonso was caught up in a blocking storm with team mate Hamilton.

Alonso had claimed pole position, but he was moved five places down the track for impeding Hamilton's progress in qualifying.

Renault's Giancarlo Fisichella was also demoted five places to 13th for impeding Spyker's Sakon Yamamoto.

Fisichella's punishment bumped Webber and Coulthard one place higher into ninth and tenth place respectively.

Webber had the better race of the Red Bull pairing, running on a three stop strategy, he was rarely threatened and finished as he started in ninth place.

Webber said: "Regarding the strategy, we thought that if we could get some clear air between lap 20-something through to 30, we'd switch to a three-stop strategy, but it wasn't enough for us to get a point today.

"The car balance improved as the race went on, and I had slightly better pace in the last two stints, but I don't think there was much more we could have done today. I was happy with how I drove, we gave everything.

"It's good now for everyone to have a break and re-group so we can finish the last six races as strong as we can be."

Unfortunately for Coulthard, his strategy did not run so smoothly as the team gambled on his position when it looked as though the safety car would be deployed, and fuelled his car to the end.

But carrying a heavy fuel load cost the Scotsman as he finished in 11th place.

Coulthard said: "It was very inconsistent between sets of tyres out on track, so it was difficult to judge our out and out performance.

"Other than that, there wasn't too much to report from this race."

Principal Engineer, Fabrice Lom added: "On one hand, this is a good result, as both cars raced reliably, which has not always been the case this year.

"So, from a technical point of view this was a good day."

Tyson – the tough of the track

CRAIG Pickering faced his toughest challenge yet at the weekend as he lined up against the fastest man in the world this year, Tyson Gay

He responded well with a solid performance which saw him claim fourth place.

It was yet another chance for the Milton Keynes runner to demonstrate to the UK athletics board how far he has developed in the 100 metres.

Pickering was up against Gay earlier than he would have liked as he lined up alongside the American sprinter in his heats.

As expected Gay won in 10.09sec, with Pickering running in second in 10.23sec.

The much-anticipated final saw Gay win in a searing 10.02, with European champion Francis Obikwelu second in 10.18.

But Pickering impressed in fourth place as he ran 10.28, snapping at the heels of UK champion Marlon Devonish, who took third in 10.26.

Later in the day Pickering took part in the 4x100metres with Devonish, Jason Gardener and Mark Lewis-Francis.

It had been set to be the perfect ending for Gardener, who announced his retirement from the sport at the start of the weekend, having spent 13 years dedicated to the sport.

But it turned into a calamity as Gardener saw a moment of confusion between Pickering and Devonish end with the baton on the floor and Great Britain being disqualified from the race.

Devonish was quick to take the blame, he said: "I take full responsibility. The golden rule of relay-running is that you don't turn round and that's what I did."

Joey Duck was also running for MK Athletic Club in the junior women's 100m, she ran 12.07sec to finish in fifth place, with Anike Shand Whittingham winning in 11.77sec.

Title bid up in the air

EUROPEAN gliding champion Pete Harvey, has had his title defence hit by poor weather.

Harvey, from Hanslope, was set to start the championships last weekend at Issoudun in France.

The competition is scheduled to run until Saturday, August 18.

The 48-year-old will be racing at speeds of up to 200kmph against the top pilots in the world, over courses of 100km to 500km.

In winning his 2005 title, Harvey competed the longest ever course set in an international gliding competition- just over 1000km.

Harvey has a record of success in the competition, having finished on the podium in both of the last two championships.

In 2004, he finished second to his British team mate Russell Cheetham while, in 2005, the positions were reversed. Last year, the pilot took the bronze medal in the World Championships and won the UK Grand Prix, qualifying for the World GP final which will be held this December in New Zealand.

Mixing it in Malaysia

BADMINTON world champions Nathan Robertson and Gail Emms will spearhead England's bid for glory when they start the defence of their title in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, on Monday.

Last year Robertson and Emms, who both train in Milton Keynes, won the mixed doubles title with Anthony Clark and Donna Kellogg taking the silver medal.

England's head coach Ian Wright has named the pair in the mixed doubles and Emms will also challenge for the women's doubles with Kellogg.

Wright said: "The squad know they they are going to have to work harder than ever to match the performances and achievements England enjoyed last year."

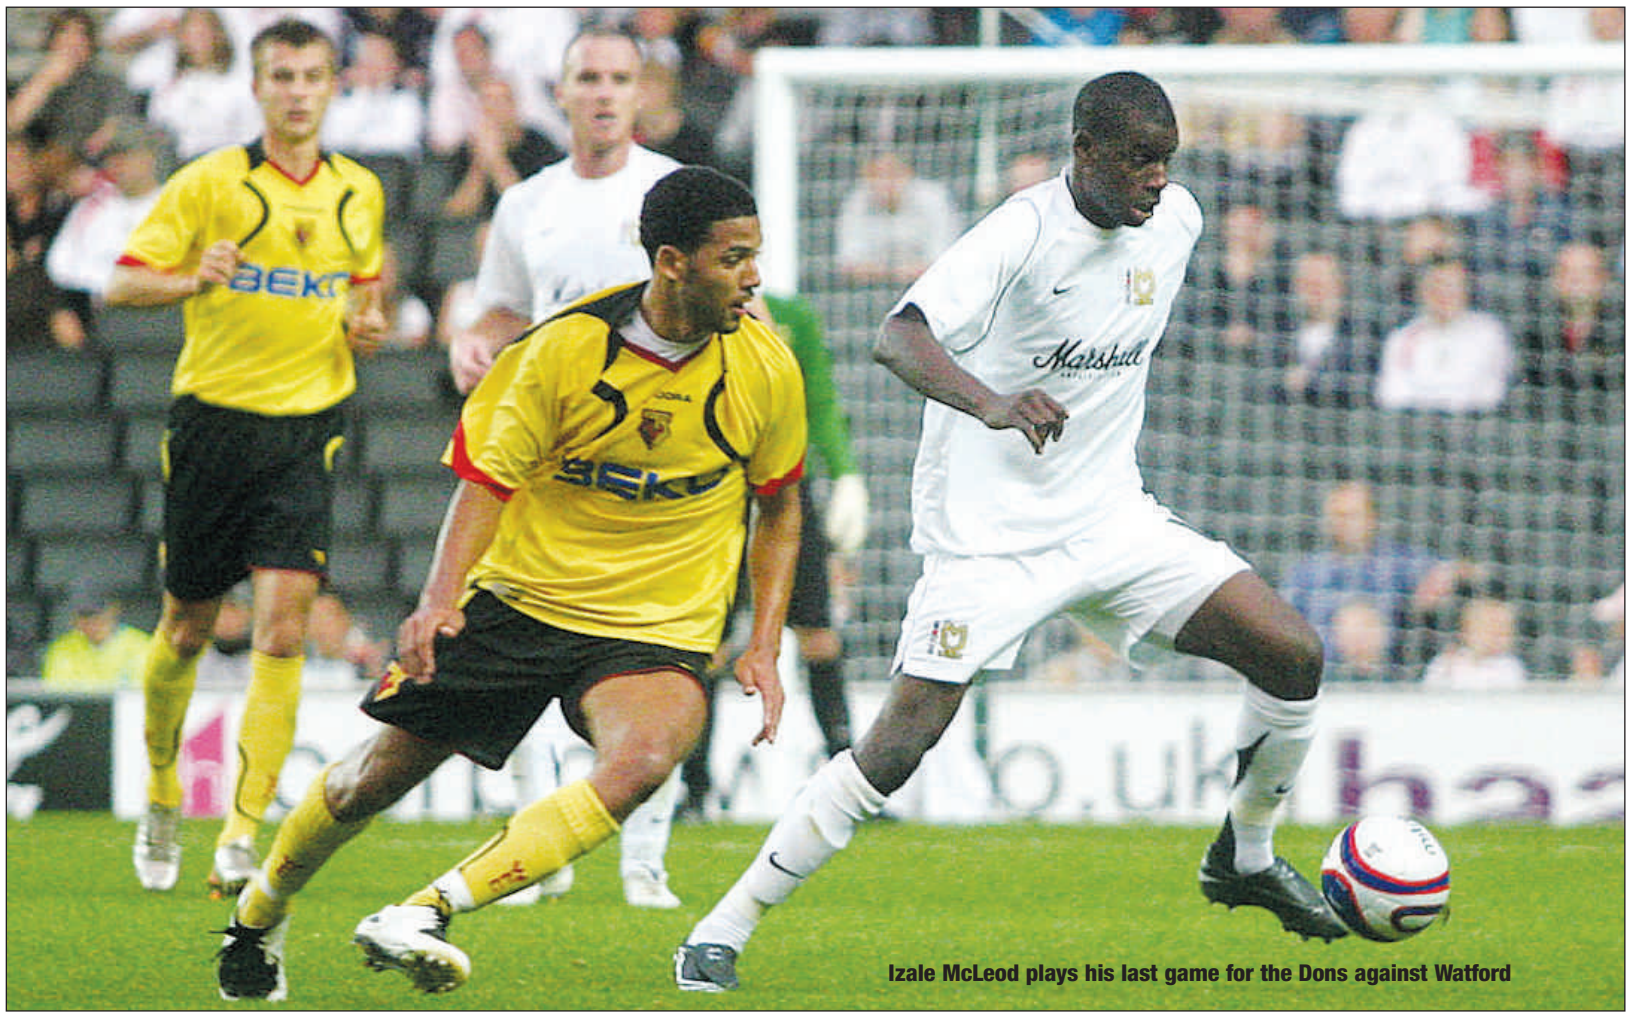
McLeod off to the Valley

Speculation ends as top striker signs for Charlton



Izale McLeod plays his last game for the Dons against Watford

IZALE McLeod is set to leave MK Dons for Championship side Charlton Athletic.

Yesterday as the Dons were preparing for Saturday's opening league fixture against Bury, McLeod was a notable absentee and when MK NEWS went to press last night the two clubs were hammering out a deal to take the striker to the Valley.

The star striker's future has been subject to speculation for 18 months, with several Championship clubs head-hunting him and it his thought his appearance against Watford was his last in a Dons shirt.

It is understood McLeod will join Alan Pardew's side for £1.2million, of which his former club Derby will receive a large percentage.

Speaking after training MK Dons manager, Paul Ince, said: "We think Izale McLeod is going to leave this week, sorry to see him go, but at the end of the day you've got people who are going to fight for the cause.

"Izale's set his sights on moving, we all know he's a talented player and you can't stand in the kids way.

"In an ideal world we'd have loved to have kept him, but you keep him for a year and then he goes for nothing and we don't get anything from it.

"Whether the timing was right or not, the fact of the matter is he's gone now and we need to focus on what we're doing."

McLeod has made 135 appearances for the Dons and is the clubs highest ever goal scorer with 60 goals to his name, but Ince is confident that his side have plenty of cover to cope with the loss of McLeod.

He said: "It gives others the chance to come in, the likes of Leon Knight, he didn't play much last year, it's chance for him now to prove a point.

"And everybody else, Drewe Broughton, Kevin Gallen they've all got a chance to stake their claim to play week in, week out."

But with the new season just three days away the Dons have no time to dwell on McLeod's impeding departure and Ince believes his side are capable of challenging the top sides this year.

He said: "All in all we are looking forward to the first league game at the new stadium.

"If you look at the games we've had against West Ham, Chelsea and Watford, they're very good opposition, the players were only half fit and we put on a good show performance wise and in theory we should only get better."

Meanwhile, Dominic Blizzard left the club last night following a mutual agreement.

The former Watford midfielder verbally agreed a two-year deal under Martin Allen at the end of the season, but with the addition of Colin Cameron and Aaron Wilbraham returning from injury, Blizzard is now surplus to requirements.
